IN THE BEE TO-DAY

U. S. Department of Agriculture,
Weather Bureau.
Toledo, Ohio, July 1, 1892.

There is an area of low pressure central over the extreme northwest, which extends as far south as Nebraska. This "low" has caused the temperature to rise 10 degrees or more over the Dakotas, Montana and Nebraska. No rain has yet been caused by it except a very slight shower at Helena, Mont. The area of "high" pressure is central over the central valleys and southern states, and is causing fair weather over the sections covered.

A local storm developed on the middle Atlantic coast which passed off rapidly, and caused heavy rains and high winds on the coast. Norfolk reports 1.22 inches; Washington, .74; New York, .42; Oswego, 74, and Buffalo, .50.

Generaly fair weather has prevailed over the country with the exception of the region mentioned above.

The temperature is lower over the Ohio valley, lower lake region and on the middle Atlantice coast, but will rise at once.

Forecast for Toledo and vicinity—On Friday and Saturday, fair and warmer.

Harrison Fears the Result of Gresham's Candidacy,

And the Reports from the National Capital Say

He Has Been Offered a Supreme Judgeship to Withdraw.

Delegates Already on the Scene of Action.

Sanbeneck Has a Platform in His Inside Pocket—Gossip Picked Up Before the Great Battle.

Cincinnati, July 1.—The Hamilton county delegation, 16 strong, accompanied by other Ohio delegates and friends, have left over the Big Four railroad for the people's party convention, at Omaha. They went in a special chair car, gaily decorated with long streamers on each side, reading, "1776—Ohio Delegation to Omaha—1892."

The delegates from this city are: W. C. Smith, W. R. Voiles, R. H. H. Wheeler H. G. Peterson, Dr. Eli Robb, R. T. Butler, Joseph McLain, Mrs. M. L. Geffs, alternates: James F. Stout, John Coulter, Mrs. Ebersole, George Kuechler, Edward Hunt, D. F. Monroe, W. J. Stevenson, John Seaman. The entire party will number about 30.

Ohio will vote solidly for Gresham for president. It is believed that he will accept the nomination, which will certainly be tendered him.

The last communication received from him was rather uncertain in tone, but the general tenor of it was encouraging to his friends. He has placed himself in the position of not seeking the office.. Nebraska yesterday instructed for him and other states have fallen into line, so that there seems no doubt as to the result. The rumor is current that the republicans have offered him a judgeship on the supreme bench, but that he declined it.

The sentiment of the Ohio delegation is that the platform will contain a free silver plank, slightly modify the St. Louis tariff platform, and advocate government ownership of railroads and telegraphs.

For second place, Weaver, of Iowa, and Watson, of Georgia, are most prominently mentioned.

Several of the delegates from Ohio expressed themselves emphatically on the matter of fusion with the prohibitionists, declaring that if overtures and concessions are made they must come to them. They are pronounced against affiliation with any other party, and advices are that this will be practically the unanimous sentiment of the convention.

There will be 1776 delegates in the convention, forming the figures representing the date of the Declaration of Independence. The preliminary work will be done Saturday morning and the nominations made Monday, the 4th of July, the work thus savoring strongly of patriotism.

THE PLATFORM.

Taubeneck Has the Document in His Inside Pocket.

Omaha, July 1.—The platform which Chairman Taubeneck, of the national executive committee has in his pocket, and which Mr. Weaver, Ignatius Donnelly, Congressman Watson, Jerry Simpson and the other leading spirits of the party agree shall be adopted as the war cry of the coming campaign is as follows:

First—We demand a national currency, safe, sound, and flexible, issued by the general government, a full legal tender for all debts, public and private, and that without the use of banking corporations, just, equitable and efficient means of distribution direct to the people at a tax not exceeding two per cent. be provided, as set forth in the subtreasury plan of the Farmers' alliance, or some better system; also by payments in discharge of its obligations for public improvement.

We demand free and unlimited coinage of silver; that the amount of circulating medium be speedily increased to not less that $50 per capita. We demand a graduated income tax, we believe the money of the country should be kept as much as possible in the hands of the people, and hence we demand that all state and national revenue shall be limited to the necessary expenses of the government economically and honestly administered. We demand that postal savings banks be established by the government for the safe deposit of the earnings of the people and to facilitate exchange.

Second—The land, including all the natural resources of wealth, is the heritage of all the people and should not be monopolized for speculative purposes, and alien ownership of land should be prohibited. All land now held by railroads and other corporations in excess of their actual needs, and all lands owned by aliens should be claimed by the government and held for actual settlers only.

Third—Transportation being a means of exchange and a public necessity, the government should own and operate the railroads in the interest of the people. The telegraph and telephone, like the postoffice system, being a necessity for transmission of news, should be owned and operated by the government in the interest of the people.

In addition to the above there will be a plank which is expected to frustrate the herculean efforts that are being exerted by the democrat leaders of the south to reclaim their fellows from the people's party ranks. This plank will be a denunciation of the republican force bill, and it will be as ringing and emphatic as the arraignment by the democratic convention a week ago.

The convention will come to order tomorrow and nominations will be made Monday.

CONGRESSMAN SPRINGER.

What He Thinks of the People's Party's Prospects.

Chicago, July 1.—Congressman Springer is at the Palmer house on his way to his summer home at the Riverside bay. "The result of the people's party convention at Omaha may cut a considerable figure in the November election," said Mr. Springer. "In many of the states of the south and west the new party will have so strong a following that the electoral ticket may be lost to both the republicans and democrats. In fact, in some of the states where the democrats are in a hopeless minority they will not put up an electoral ticket, but will put the people's party electors on the regular democratic ticket, in hopes that they may thereby prevent the republican electors from getting a majority of the votes cast. If this can be done in enough states there will be no doubt as to the result of the election, and as to who will sit in the white house after March 4.

"The new people's party is not the old farmers' alliance alone. It is a coalition of the farmers' alliance, the old labor party, and members of various other parties, such as the greenback, the granger and the independent. In Pennsylvania the followers of Mr. Powderly, to the number of 100,000, will vote for the nominees of the Omaha convention, and as most of these will be taken from the ranks of the republicans, Pennsylvania may go democratic.

"It requires a majority of the votes of the electoral college to make a candidate president, and if the people's party can get a balance of power and keep both the republicans and democrats from having a majority the election will be thrown into the house of representatives. As the present house is democratic, Grover Cleveland, of course, would be the man that would be elected. The vote in the house of representatives, in case the electoral college failed to elect, would be by states and not by representatives in congress. Each state would have one vote, and the way that would be cast would be determined by the complexion of the representation. A state that has twenty representatives in congress, nine of them republicans and eleven democrats, would cast its vote for the democratic nominee. As something like thirty of the forty-four states are democratic looked at from this standpoint, there could of course be but one result.

"The law provides that in case the electoral college fails to select, the house shall ballot on the names of the three men who received the highest number of votes. This would prevent the choice of a rank outsider. In the senate, where the vice-president is elected, in such an event as I have named, each senator casts one vote. The result of the election, in case the people's party should get a balance of power, would be, therefore, president, Grover Cleveland; vice-president, Whitelaw Reid."

BANKRUPT AT THE START.

Very Little Money with Which to Grease the Machine.

Omaha, July 1.—The indications are today that the national convention of the people's party will be even a greater success in point of numbers than had been anticipated by the most sanguine of the leaders.

The delegates are pouring in on every train, and the hotels, both large and small, are already crowded, although the rank and file of the delegates and their associates will not be here until to-night or early to-morrow morning.

It is concluded that, between those now here and on their way, the event will attract to the city between twenty-five and thirty thousand visitors. Pledges of accommodation and entertainment made by the citizens of Omaha last February at St. Louis have not, however, been very largely fulfilled.

Committees galore have been appointed, but their work has borne little fruit. A small sum of money has been raised, scarcely enough to pay for the arrangement and decoration of the convention hall, and even now, at the last moment, funds are coming in so slowly that the committee is well nigh disheartened.

LOOKING TO GRESHAM.

Land Tillers in Straw Hats and Cowhide Boots.

Chicago, July 1.—Half a dozen men in big straw hats and cowhide boots called at Judge Gresham's court room yesterday prepared to extend to him the nomination for president on the people's party ticket. The gentlemen claimed to be members of the farmers' alliance, and said they were on their way to Omaha to attend the people's party convention.

They were in the federal building but a short time, and departed after having received assurances that Judge Gresham was not in town and would not return until July 5.

TROUBLE IN THE SOUTH

Late Reports of the Bombardment of Porto Alegro.

Three Days Fighting on the Interior —Battles Have Occurred at Several Places.

New York, July 1.—A special cable dispatch to the Herald from Valparaiso, Chile, gives later details of the bombardment of the city of Porto Alegro in the Brazilian state of Rio Grande do Sul.

The gunboat Marajo opened the attack but the Castilho forces were prepared for it and began preparations for their repulse. The land forces under command of Gen. Valersquez opened fire from the shore batteries. At the same time two other gunboats took part in the defense. This combined movement proved too strong for the Marajo and she retreated.

A desperate battle also occurred at Viamao, situated 12 miles from Porto Alegro. After three days heavy fighting, the Castilhos were defeated. The federal loss was slight but the attacked party had 48 men killed.

Another battle is reported to have occurred near Bage in the southern part of the state. In this engagement the Castilho forces were successful.

A dispatch from Rio says that congress has agreed to postpone the election for president till the end of the year. President Plexetto will hold off.

OHIO POSTMASTERS.

They Get an Addition to Their Salaries.

Washington, D. C., July 1.—The postoffice department officials to-day finished the annual adjustment of postmasters. These salaries are based upon office receipts. The changes in Ohio are given below. The following are increased $100 per year: Akron, Alliance, Athens, Barnesville, Berea, Bridgeport, Bucyrus, Camden, Canal Dover, College Hill, Columbiana, Columbus Grove, Coshocton, Crestline, Cuyahoga Falls, Dayton, Eaton, Franklin, Galion, Gallipolis, Garrettsville, Georgetown, Hamilton, Harrison, Kent, Leetonia, Loudonville, Marrietta, McConnellsville, Marion, Middlebury, Middleport, Newark, New Lisbon, Orrville, Paulding, Plain City, Ravenna, Ripley, St. Marys, Salineville, Springfield, Steubenville, Toledo, Urbana, Van Wert, Wapakoneta, Waverly, Willoughby.

There was an increase of $200 per year at Jamestown, Middletown, New Carlisle, and Niles, and an increase of $400 at Lorain, which shows the postal business of these towns to be rapidly increasing. The only falling off in receipts was at Delta, where the postmaster's salary is reduced $100.

BECOMING SERIOUS.

Exciting Times Reported from Fort Reno.

Lot Jumpers Demand the Books and Threaten Death to the Land Officers

El Reno, O. T., July 1.—Yesterday was the last day for the lot jumper. The ringleaders of the jumpers went before the federal town site board and demanded the books and records, which were refused them.

They left, swearing they would blow up the block in which the board has offices. The members of the board are guarding their books and records with Winchesters and the block is surrounded by sties from the lot jumping faction to prevent the books and records from being taken away, and they declare they will kill at sight the first man who attempts to remove a book. Word has been dispatched to the fort for help, but Major Woodson is powerless to move without instructions from Washington.

YALE WON THE RACE.

Splendid Contest Rowed at New London.

Heavy Rain During the Progress of the Event.

Harvard and Columbia Freshmen Not in It With the Blue Blades.

New London, July 1.—At the time appointed for the race the conditions in reference to wind, wave and tide were almost perfect save for rain, which came down quite heavily, and continued so during and after the race.

The Harvard crew made its appearance coming down the river at 11:07, and reached the starting point at the big bridge about 11:15. The boats left the crew quarters in tow of the Yale and Harvard launches which carried the three crews. The Yale launch carried both the Yale and Columbia freshmen crews and had both boats in tow. Meantime the rain continued in a lively manner and a brisk breeze stirred up the waves somewhat.

The Harvard men took their seats in their shell first within a few minutes after arriving at the start.

At 11:30 every crew had taken its place in the shells and was ready for the word in five minutes.

At a toss for position just before leaving the quarters, Harvard won and chose the middle course; Yale, with second choice, selected the west, and Columbia was given the east course.

In the midst of a pouring rain and the face of a strong northeast wind, the word was given a little after 12 o'clock. At the referee's pistol shot the crews got away without a perceptible splash. Columbia caught the water first though the powerful stroke of Yale sent the boat with the blue tipped oars at once to the lead. The three crews all took a fast stroke, varying from 39 to 41 to the minute for the first quarter mile, and at the end of that distance were pretty bunched, Yale leading by a few yards and Columbia and Harvard almost tied, the former a trifle in the lead.

Between this and the three-quarter mile flag the great change came in the relative position of the crews. Yale dropped her stroke to 38, which seemingly was her most effective number. Both the Harvard and Columbia eights rowed their 40 to the minute. Yale seemed to gain at every dip of her blades and was two lengths ahead of her rivals when the third quarter of the first mile had been rowed.

Then Columbia was leading Harvard by about a third of a boat's length. As the mile post was passed Yale was still gaining while Harvard was rapidly filling the breach between her boat and that of Columbia. The Yale stroke was here again quickened to 40 which was the number still adhered to by both the other crews.

Just after starting upon the last mile Columbia braced again in effectiveness, though decidedly not in finish of stroke or handling of the boat. The stroke was jerky and jagged at the finish and though the boat shot ahead of Harvard the keel was uneven.

At the beginning of the last half mile the fast stroke by all three began to tell on each of the crews, and the stroke pulled became much less powerful, though kept up to the same high rate.

At this stage of the contest Columbia's coxswain plowed out a crooked path for the shell, steering wildly toward the center of the course. Harvard gained rapidly, but the physical possibilities of the Columbia men began to tell in spite of the heavy handicap of crooked steering and a rough stroke, and they once more drew away from the crimson.

Yale held dher own to the finish, pulling evenly and running the boat along at a uniform rate of 36 to 38 strokes to the minute.

She finished about 8 lengths ahead of Columbia, who led Harvard by 2 1-2 lengths. The official time as announced was: Yale, 12.03 1-2; Columbia, 12.20; Harvard, 12.28. The time for the first mile was: Yale, 5.47; Columbia, 5.53, and Harvard, 5.58.

It was a slow race and about a minute short of the freshman inter-collegiate record. Richardson, who pulled Harvard No. 2, weakened toward the end of the race and collapsed at the finish. He is subject to fainting spells and succumbed to one.

Yale-Harvard.

The following are the names, age, height and weight of the crews which will row in ohe Yale-Harvard race at 5 o'clock:

WERE AHEAD OF TIME.

Some Fireworks Explode in Chicago.

A Celebration That Came Off Ahead of Time—A Big Fire Under Control.

Chicago, July 1.—A terrific explosion of fireworks occurred in the store-rooms of the American Toy company, 155 Fifth avenue, at 10 o'clock this morning. The roof was blown out and the building almost instantly took fire.

A crowd gathered which was treated to a premature Fourth of July display, and when the fire engines arrived rockets, roman candles and serpents were soaring through the shattered roof, while firecrackers and torpedoes exploding in bunches of hundreds, made a din like that of a pitched battle.

The fire was quickly under control, however, and none of the adjoining buildings suffered, although the toy company's store was gutted. The loss is about $20,000; half insured. All the persons in the building escaped with slight bruises except Mamie Wright, who was badly crushed on the stairs in the rush to escape from the building.

Y. P. S. C. E.

Close of an Interesting Convention in Akron.

Akron, July 1.—What is pronounced on every hand to have been the most successful Y. P. S. C. E. state convention held in Ohio since the organization of the society, came to an end yesterday morning with a sunrise prayer meeting at the First Baptist church.

At this early hour the church auditorium and the Sunday school rooms were crowded by enthusiastic delegates. The meeting was presided over by Miss Julia Orr, of Kingston. Numerous hymns were sung in a spirited manner, and many of the delegates took part in the closing session by chosen remarks or brief words of prayer. The main topic of discussion was the resolutions adopted against opening the world's Columbian exposition on Sundays. The resolutions are as follows:

Resolved, That we stand in unalterable opposition to the opening of the Columbian exposition upon the Sabbath and the sale of liquor upon its grounds, and that we unite with Christians throughout the land, in asking that the appropriation of money by congress to its support be made subject to these conditions.

Resolved, That in view of the stand already taken by the friends of the Sabbath and of temperance and in view of the very far-reaching influence of the matter, in case our petition is denied by those in authority, we earnestly recommend that the members of our societies withhold the support and sanction of their presence.

Resolved, That properly certified copies of our first resolution, together with a statement of the number of the societies and members we represent, be forwarded to our United States Senators and to the secretary of the board of directors of the Columbian exposition from the district in which we are assembled, with the request that they be presented to their respective bodies, and, further, that a properly certified copy of our first resolution be sent to our international convention soon to consemble in New York city with an invitation to concur in the same.

The committee on place of next meeting, which recommended Cincinnati for meeting place for the convention next year, also recommended that the convention of 1894 should be held in Springfield.

ELECTIONS IN ENGLAND

First Man Chosen for the New Parliament.

Lord Randolph Churchill Again Returned.

Gladstone's Speech at Edinburg the Subject of Much Comment—Counter Claims.

London, July 1.—The general election opened to-day with the return without opposition of Lord Randolph Churchill, conservative, from South Paddington. Lord Randolph Churchill has represented South Paddington in the parliament just dissolved. The district is overwhelmingly conservative and unionist.

In 1885 Lord Randolph had 2,731 votes to 1,625 for Skinner, liberal. In 1886 the Irish home rule issue having arisen the liberal vote dwindled to 769 for Hopps, liberal, to 2,576 for Churchill and this time the liberals thought it best not to waste any money in contesting the seat but to retain their funds in districts that promised better results for the liberal party.

Lord Randolph Churchill, who is known as "the candid friend," is not regarded as a desirable ally by many of the conservatives, but he has personal influence which they cannot ignore.

Mr. Gladstone's address in Edinburgh is the topic of every club and is eagerly perused by both parties. The tories accuse Mr. Gladstone of raising a class issue, and of pandering to the popular prejudice against the rich and titled in order to gratify his personal ambition for power.

The liberals on the other hand argued that Mr. Gladstone has effectually spiked the guns of his adversaries and that he has answered completely the charge that there was something hidden in his scheme of home rule. They assert that his arraignment of the educated and upper classes is more than justified by the history of the country within the past 50 years and that Mr. Gladstone has gladly vindicated the right and the ability of the common people of Great Britain to control and direct the affairs of the nation.

There is no doubt that Mr. Gladstone has struck a most popular keynote. There is a tremendous rush to-day for his speech, and it is already being made ready in pamphlet form for distribution throughout the United Kingdom. The liberals regard it as the platform of their campaign and will be guided by it everywhere in their appeals to the voters.

The enthusiasm of Mr. Gladstone's reception in Edinburgh is also contrasted by the liberals with the display of popular antagonism that greeted the conservative leader, Mr. Balfour, in Sheffield, and many of the tories also admit that the contrast is ominous.

On the other hand the tories claim to derive consolation from the fact that they have nothing to lose in Edinburgh and that outside of the partial representation of Edinburgh university, which returns one member along with St. Andrews university, the whole Edinburgh representation is liberal. The tories point out that the multitude that greeted Mr. Gladstone spoke for a liberal city and their enthusiasm did not mean the change of a seat. Notwithstanding these arguments, there is no doubt that the liberals are greatly inspired by Mr. Gladstone's reception in Edinburgh.

Iron Manufacturers Ask for Another Conference.

Many Firms Signing the New Scale.

The Shutdown at Homestead and Three Thousand Idle Men on the Streets.

Pittsburg, July 1.—The firm front presented by the iron manufacturers and workers was broken at 10 o'clock last night by the manufacturers, who made a request for another conference with the scale committee of the Amalgamated association.

The request was at once granted and the conference will probably be held to-day. This action of the manufacturers is regarded as favorable to a settlement.

Up to last evening the iron scale has been signed by the National Tube Works company of McKeesport, Pa.; Oliver & Roberts Wire Nail company, of Pittsburg; Illinois Iron and Steel company, the Harris Forge and Iron company, of Irondale, Minn.; and the Union Iron Mills of Carnegie & Co., this city. The steel scale has been signed by the Oliver Steel company. These mills will continue in operation. They employ in all about 12,000 men. The Amalgamated association has upwards of 100,000 members, and a strike on this district would involve nearly 50,000 men. A general strike would affect at least 75,000 men.

The Amalgamated association received notice that following additional firms had signed the scale to-day: Chartiers Iron and Steel company, of Pittsburg; Riverside Iron company, of Cincinnati; Muskegon Iron company, of Muskegon, Mich.; Rome Iron company, of Rome, Ga.; Cleveland Hardware company, of Cleveland, O.; Scottdale Iron and Steel company, of Scottdale, Pa.; Kansas City Rolling Mill company, of Kansas City, Mo.; and the Muncie Rolling Mill company, of Muncie, Ind. These firms employ from 150 to 600 men each and will have no effect upon the general situation.

Three Thousand Men Idle.

Pittsburg, July 1.—The Homestead shut down went into operation yesterday. There were 3,000 idle tonnage men on the streets and they have invited the mechanical department day laborers and watchmen to join them. They expect that the men will do so and if so the entire plant will be idle. The firm discharged all the employes at midnight and notified them to report for their pay at the office on Saturday. By this action the Carnegies have cleverly forestalled the men and by making it a lockout instead of a strike have placed them on the defensive. The streets are crowded but everything is quiet.

During the lockout every means possible will be used to preserve peace, and this end is desired by both the mill workers and the Carnegie company. The Amalgamated association has sworn in twenty extra men to do police duty without pay, and the company has added a number of watchmen to protect their property. It is thought the latter are well armed and will keep a sharp lookout day and night. The trains are being watched by committees of the association, and there are men stationed all over the country at manufacturing points to inform the organization here should any gang of workmen board the train for Homestead.

A committee of workmen called upon the Pittsburg, McKeesport & Youghiogheny railroad authorities and requested that no trains bearing men to take the places of the strikers be stopped in the limits of the yard. The request was refused, the officials stating that the yard of Carnegie Steel Works was a regular station. The refusal of the company to comply with the wishes of the men caused great excitment, and many threats of violence were made against the railroad company.

GOVERNOR CAMPBELL.

He Sees a Bright Future for Democracy.

Says It Will Take all the Money Republicans Can Raise to Old Ohio

New York, July 1.—"We are all right now," was the cheery greeting of ex-Gov. James E. Campbell, of Ohio, at the Fifth Avenue hotel. "Things look a little different from what they did before the Chicago convention. With Cleveland and Stevenson, we will have no difficulty in putting our party in power."

"Is Ohio safe?"

"We out there know what the people want, and you can safely put Ohio in the democratic column. We are going to work with a vengeance, and the republicans of Ohio will have no money to send out of the state this year. You know the usual thing is that Ohio sends a goodly amount of cash to doubtful states, but they will need it, every penny, at home this year. Besides, when we make a great fight in Ohio it always helps in Indiana. There is no place in the world where politics rage as fiercely as in Ohio and Indiana. We are sure of Indiana."

"Do you think the tariff plank has weakened the democrats in the west?"

On the contrary, judging by facts, it has helped matters. We have gained right along in the manufacturing towns of Ohio, and I think it is the same way in Indiana."

"I see, governor, that at one time the lightning seemed in a fair way of striking."

"No" (with a smile), "that was only the talk of the newspapers. I was for Cleveland from the beginning, and did all in my power to give him my delegation. I knew that he was the strongest man in the party, the one the people of the country wanted, and the one the democrats could win with. I was never in any sense a candidate and would not under any circumstances have permitted the use of my name. Mr. Cleveland is the man to lead the democrats to victory. Mr. Whitney? He is the man for the chairmanship of the national committee. He has shown himself a wonderful worker and of great executive ability.

"Stevenson will be a great help to the ticket. He is strong, very strong, with the west. He has a great many friends, and every one of them swears by him."

It is understood that ex-Gov. Campbell will go to Buzzard's bay to see and talk with Mr. Cleveland, although he says he is just going to Boston on business.

TO THE SENATE.

Ed Murphy May be the Man to Succeed Hiscock.

New York, July 1.—The Herald says: The bitterest opponents of Mr. Cleveland at Chicago were State Chairman Edward Murphy, jr., and Lieutenant Governor Sheehan. In a quiet way much is being said about Mr. Murphy for United States senator to succeed Frank Hiscock. A few days ago one of the best informed democrats in the state and a friend of Senator Hill, said: "Hill made a mistake in going to the senate. He thought he was the only man who could solve the problem in the state at that time, but there was another man who would have answered just as well as a matter of party policy and would not have made any mistakes."

"Who is he?"

"I mean Ed Murphy. We could have elected him without any difficulty whatever."

If Chairman Murphy cares to go to the United States senate—and it is understood that he does—that fact may make harmony easy of accomplishment among the New York democrats.

BIDWELL TO LEAD

The National Prohibition Party This Fall.

J. B. Cranfeld, of Texas, for Vice President.

A Warm Discussion on the Platform.

Free Silver Men Score a Decided Failure.

Proceedings of the Convention in Detail—Adjournment Taken at an Early Hour in the Morning.

Cincinnati, July 1.—The reading of the report of the platform committee occupied the time of the prohibition convention yesterday afternoon. The majority report was as follows:

The prohibition party in national convention assembled, acknowledging Almighty God as the source of all true government, and His law the standard to which all human enactments must conform to secure the blessing of peace and prosperity, presents the following declaration of principles:

1. The liquor traffic is a foe to civilization, the arch enemy of popular government and a public nuisance. It is the citadel of the forces that corrupt politics, promote proverty and crime, degrade the nation's home life, thwart the will of the people, and deliver our country into the hands of rapacious class interests. All laws that under the guise or regulation legalize and protect this traffic or make the government share in its illgotten gains are "vicious in principle and powerless as a remedy."

"We declare anew for the entire suppression of the manufacture, sale, importation, deportation and transportation of alcoholic liquors as a beverage by federal and state legislation, and the full powers of the government should be exerted to secure this result. Any party that falls to recognize the dominant nature of this issue in American politics is undeserving of the support of the people.

2. No citizen should be denied the right to vote on account of sex, and equal labor should receive equal wages without regard to sex.

3. The money of the country should be issued by the general government only, and in sufficient quantities to meet the demands of business and give full opportunity for the employment of labor. To this end an increase in the volume of money is demanded, and no individual or corporation should be allowed to make any profit through its issue. It should be made a legal tender for the payment of all debts, public and private. Its volume should be fixed at a definite sum per capita and made to increase with our increase in population.

4. We favor the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold.

5. The traiff should be levied only as a defense against foreign governments which levy tariff upon or bar out our products from their markets, revenue being incidental. The residue of means necessary to an economical administration of the government should be raised by levying a burden on what the people possess instead of upon what we consume.

Other planks in the platform demand government control of railroads, telegraphs and other public corporations; the further restriction of immigration and the extension of the naturalization period; oppose acquisition of lands by aliens and favor forfeiture of unearned land grants; denounce the reign of mob law and demand trial by jury for all citizens; demand one day's rest in seven for all persons; favor arbitration; denounce speculation in margins; favor pensions; unequivocally stand by the American public school system and teaching in English, and oppose grants of money in sectarian schools, and denounce both parties for truckling to the money interests and to the saloons.

The first cheering came at the end of the prohibition plank. Woman suffrage also elicited cheers. There was a loud outburst of applause on the reading of the free coinage declaration. Enthusiastic manifestations continued throughout the reading, every plank seeming to strike a responsive chord in the convention, particularly the anti-option and public school planks.

The Minority Report.

The minority, composed of almost half the members of the resolutions committee, offered substitutes for the financial, silver and the tariff planks.

The minority report was signed by 12 members headed by James Black, of Pennsylvania.

The two reports were read, and the convention was in a great deal of confusion over the method of proceeding with its consideration; but finally, on motion of ex-Gov. St. John, the minority report was taken up section by section. There was no serious trouble until the financial and silver planks were reached. An effort to substitute the minority plank caused a parliamentary tangle, complicated by an amendment offered by Hartz, of Illinois, having in view as a substitute for both majority and minority planks a plank for the free coinage of the American product under certain conditions.

Prof. Dickie, of Michigan, endeavored to cut off debate to get to voting at once, but St. John energetically asserted that he had been first recognized.

Chairman Ritter ruling against St. John's right to the floor, there was an exciting time, St. John evidently having the convention with him, notwithstanding the protest of Morgan, of Minnesota, against the convention being swayed by regard for any man. Fanning, of Michigan, appealed from the decision of the chair, and won by a rising vote of 482 to 453.

The way was thus opened for debate, and there was a warm discussion of the merits of the silver question, St. John and Hpp, of Colorado, championing free coinage, and Carskadon, of West Virginia, opposing it.

There was a babel before the vote could be had.

The majority plank, however, No. 3, relating to finance, was then adopted without division.

The fight then came upon the fourth plank, declaring in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of both metals. A vote was promptly taken by states, and free coinage got a bad knockout, the plank being rejected by a vote of 335 to 596.

The result of this action is that the third plank of the platform, enunciating the financial policy of the prohibition party, remains in the platform, but there is no plank in the platform on the silver question.

After the free coinage men got beaten an effort was made to strike out "unlimited" and adopt a resolution for "free coinage," but it was ruled out of order.

The tariff fight promptly followed and it took a few minutes only to defeat the minority plank by a large vote and to adopt the majority plank.

Under the call of the previous question vigorously led by Funk, of New York, the other planks of the platform went through without amendment, though against some opposition in a number of instances, which opposition, owing to prompt calls for the previous question, did not get a full opportunity to express itself.

The consideration of all the planks of the platform having been completed, a resolution of the minority (intended as an addition to the platform) inviting into the party all persons who are with the prohibitionists on the liquor question, as the one dominant issue, then came up and precipitated quite a fight. Mrs. Gougar, St. John, and the strong anti-factionists opposing it vigorously.

St. John got the floor and made a speech declaring that the resolution was a reflection on all the other things in the platform. The minority counted less than 200 votes necessary to order a call of states and accordingly lost their resolution.

There were loud protests against the proceedings by which St. John had been enabled after making his speech to cut off debate on the last minority resolution, and there were vehement objections which swelled into a tumult of disorder and confusion when St. John attempted to put the platform on its passage as a whole. The proceedings soon became altogether irregular.

Mr. Dodge offered an amendment to insert the words "consist of gold, silver and paper," between the words 'shou'd" and "be issued," in the first line of the financial plank. The whole convention got tied up in a knot over the chairman's ruling. So far as Dodge was concerned the knot was finally cut by the discovery that the words desired to be inserted by Dodge had been originally in the plank, and had been inadvertently omitted. The words were again placed in the platform. The ruling of the chairman was a dangerous one, however, and let in a chance to renew the silver squabble, of which advantage was taken, much to the annoyance of those who wanted to finish the work.

Meanwhile the party was in a critical condition in another direction. There was serious danger of a big split, not only in the convention, but in the prohibition party as a whole, and of a bolt on the part of the members of the New York and Pennsylvania and other delegations, including Wm. Wardwell, the secretary of the national committee and treasurer of the Standard Oil company, and other influential members.

The financial and other economic planks were extremely distasteful to them, and the last minority resolution, making prohibition the only test of party fealty, was the principle tie that still bound them to the party as represented at this convention, much as they disliked to get out of the present party. Its defeat, and that with scant courtesy, bore hard upon them.

Members of the delegation acknowledged that some of their associates were thinking of leaving the convention. To most of the delegates the trouble was unknown; but Chairman Dickie, of the national committee, Col. Ritter, A. A. Stevens and other leaders knew of that storm that threatened within their ranks, and were striving for a method by which to prevent an outbreak. The silver matter became lost sight of, and soon the delegates got an inkling of the division in their ranks.

The following resolution offered by Rev. J. G. Evans, of Abingdon, Ill., was carried:

Resolved, That we favor a liberal appropriation by the federal government for the world's Columbian exposition, but only on the condition that the sale of intoxicating drinks upon the exposition grounds is prohibited, and that the exposition be kept closed on Sunday.

On motion of St. John it was ordered that the convention on reassembling at 8:30 p. m. proceed to ballot for candidates for president of the United States.

BIDWELL AND CANFIELD.

The National Prohibition Party Names a President.

Anxiety to get to balloting caused the convention to forget the usual prayer at the opening of the night session, but part of the delegates objected strenuously to the omission, and when the throne of grace had been properly invoked the nominating speeches promptly began.

ExGov. John P. St. John, of Kansas, at the request of the California delegation, was given the floor first to place before the convention the name of Gen. John Bidwell, of California. St. John assailed the circulation of unsigned dodgers in the convention hall, attacking Gen. Bidwell's record, because the latter voted for the Pacific railroad land grant and against a tax in wines, years ago. The speaker defended Gen. Bidwell's action, and answered another objection that Bidwell might withdraw for Weaver, by saying Gen. Bidwell would stay in the field until November. He reviewed Gen. Bidwell's career, and said he was a man competent and able to administer the office of president if elected.

Much cheering greeted the conclusion of Gov. St. John's address.

John Hipp, on behalf of Colorado, seconded Bidwell's nomination, and Connecticut and Florida followed suit.

Idaho sought to yield place to one of Demorest's eastern supporters for a nominating speech, but was ruled out of order by the chair, causing considerable confusion among the Demorest men.

When Illinois was called Dr. J. G. Evans arose. It was expected he would nominate David McCulloch, but he surprised the delegates by saying that circumstances had caused a change, and Illinois' favorite son had retired from the field. He seconded Bidwell's nomination.

Iowa, through Wilmot Whitfield, and Kentucky, through Col. Bain, did the same thing.

Cushing, "for the prohibition Hercules, state of Maine, seconded the nomination of the prohibition Hercules of the Pacific coast."

Samuel Dickie, of Michigan, said that it had been the intention of Michigan to honor its favorite son, John Russell, with a complimentary vote, but that favorite son himself desired that the Michigan delegation second Bidwell's nomination.

The seconding speeches of Bidwell began to grow monotonous, nearly every state having a speaker for him.

At last New York was reached and another name was put in nomination. Chairman Wardwell of the New York delegation announced that the state had voted 73 for Bidwell to 7 for Demorest, but he asked that an opportunity be given to present Demorest's name. John Lloyd Thomas made the nominating speech. The people, he said, had turned spontaneously to one man, whose name it was not necessary to spell before any prohibitionist; whose record it was not necessary to vindicate; whose political record needed no explanation, and that man was W. Jennings Demorest. The rank and file of the party had nominated Demorest. He spoke against the denunciations cast the last few days on Demorest, and said he was a man of ability, whose name was an inspiration to prohibitionists everywhere. He urged Demorest as a more available man than Bidwell, because there would be no charges to meet and no record to explain, but denied that Demorest's supporters had said anything against the character of any other candidate.

C. N. Gradison, a full black negro college professor of North Carolina, amid much enthusiasm, seconded the nomination of Demorest for a part of his delegation.

L. B. Logan, of Ohio, earnestly put in nomination Gideon T. Stewart.

Though only three candidates were named for first place, seconding speeches lasted until nearly midnight, to the weariness of delegates and spectators.

On the first ballot Gen. John Bidwell, of California, was nominated. Bascom, of New York, not placed in nomination, received three votes in the New York delegation. The totals before any changes or corrections were made, stood: 582 for Bidwell, 184 for Stewart, 142 for Demorest, and 3 for Bascom.

The noise that greeted the announcement of Bidwell's victory lasted fully five minutes. On motion of the state of Georgia, which was the only state to vote solidly against Bidwell, seconded by Demorest's personal friends, Bidwell's nomination was made unanimous, and another outburst followed, ending with cheers for Bidwell and for Demorest.

The official record of the ballot shows 590 votes for Bidwell, 139 for Demorest and 179 for Stewart.

John Lloyd Thomas, late secretary of the national committee, was presented a purse of $200 in appreciation of his services.

It was approaching 1 a. m. when the nominating and seconding speeches for vice presidential candidates got under way. The following candidates were presented: Sam W. Small, of Georgia; Wm. W. Satterlee, of Minnesota; Joseph Levering, of Maryland; J. B. Cranfeld, of Texas, and Thos. R. Carskadon, of West Virginia.

Small withdrew before a vote was taken, saying he was no man's fool, and knew before he was here many days that the ticket had been made up. He tried, as he had previously tried against Bidwell, to break the slate by urging Cranfeld in place of Levering.

The first ballot resulted in no choice. Levering received 380 votes, Cranfeld 386, Satterlee 26 and Clarkson 21. Before the figures were announced enough changes were made to give Cranfeld 416 votes, 9 more than enough to win.

Joe Goddard Wins His Fight With Ease.

Chicago and Cincinnati Play a Game Right.

Toledo Wins a Hotly Contested Game Pitcher Pears Released—General Base Ball News.

San Francisco, July 1.—The wigwam where the McAuliffe-Goddard fight took place last night was packed, fully 3,000 people being present. A number of preliminary bouts preceded the principal event of the evening. Joe McAuliffe, who is well known as the "Mission Boy," has always been a favorite here, while Joe Goddard, the Barrier Champion of Brisbane, Australia, has made himself strong with many by his showing with Peter Jackson, and the two decisive defeats of Joe Choyinski. It is estimated that $50,000 had been wagered in this city. The odds were 20 to 17, and 10 to 8 1-2 in Goddard's favor.

The men fought at catch weights, Goddard's being given as 190 and McAuliffe's 219. The purse was $5,000, of which the loser was to take $750. McAuliffe was seconded by Alex Greggans and Martin Murphy, while Herbert Goddard and Henry Gallagher were in Goddard's corner. President Cook was referee.

The men stripped apparently in the best condition, hard and without superfluous flesh. Goddard appeared small beside his big boyish opponent.

Mac made the first lead and the men clinched a couple of times. Goddard rushed with his left in the chest, right on the heart. Goddard again rushed Mac to the ropes, but was sent down with a right-hander.

Second—After some fiddling Goddard let go his left and the men clinched. Mac staggered him with a right-hander on the ribs, and Goddard missing a lead, Mac came in with both hands. Mac again stopped a rush so forcibly that the Australian's right leg flew up and the spectators hissed, for they thought Goddard was trying to kick him. Hot rallies near the ropes followed, Mac jabbing his opponent with both hands, whilt Goddard resorted to rib punching.

Third—Goddard rushed with his left, and after a clinch sent Mac's head back with a left-hander. His overhand smashes generally failed to reach, but he landed a good left on Joe's ear. Goddard then banged about the head, Joe slipping to the floor, all but falling on his knees.

Fourth—Goddard came up a little winded, but eager, and forced the pace. Both ducked a couple of swings citverly. Goddard now showed up better, and banged the "Mission Boy" hard about the head.

Fifth—Goddard had a great way of going under Mac's guard, then giving him both hands in the face. This puzzled Mac, who was forced to clinch; but he got home on a break away, and the Australian's left eye was soon closed and bleeding.

Sixth—Goddard was again the aggressor. Mac, flushed, but confident. Goddard pushed him about the ring and countered forcibly on his jaw. Goddard slipped to his knee from a long drive by McAuliffe as the round closed.

Seventh—A right smash on Mac's ribs, and left hook on the Australian's was followed by a desperate clinch. Goddard landed straight on Mac's jaw, and a series of fruitless swings followed. Goddard landed a hard right swing on Joe's ear and smashed him in the chest.

Eighth—Goddard uppercut Mac. After some fruitless swings and long range sparring, Goddard pounded hard with his left on Joe's shoulder, drawing blood. Mac got in a good right drive in the face as the gong sounded.

Ninth—Mac had proved something of a disappointment to his supporters, while Goddard's friends were correspondingly elated. The men now got to close work. Goddard doing more forcible work and putting a couple of telling right-handers on the ear and wind. Goddard punched Joe in the stomach with his left, and two right uppercuts followed.

Tenth—Bets had been made that the fight would not last over ten rounds Goddard forced Mac against the ropes, swinging his right on the jaw, Mac seemed flurried, and the Australian rushed him. Goddard struck the San Franciscan a hard back-hander on the cheek, but Mac retaliated hard in the face.

Eleventh—Goddard forced McAuliffe from his corner, making desperate drives for his head. Mac's temper was aroused and he punched the Australian hard on the chest. Goddard paid most attention to the body and head, and seemed trying for a knock-out. McAuliffe pusehd his usual slow method of long range drives after clinching.

Twelfth—Goddard came up, evidently bent on finishing the San Franciscan, and banged him about the ring with both hands. McAuliffe made more use of his left, and stopped several desperate lefts with jabs on the mouth. Goddard crowded him to the ropes and Mac resorted to clinching to save himself.

Thirteenth—Goddard banged Mac around the ring. The Mission boy grabbed him by the neck in a bear-like hug lasting over two seconds. Goddard countered forcibly with both hands. Mac upper cut once, but he had apparently lost all idea of guarding himself or making an aggressive fight.

Fourteenth—Mac made a quick lead, but Goddard countered with a left on the jaw and staggered him. Mac clinched him about the neck and Goddard smashed him in the ribs. The Australian banged Mac from corner to post, sending him through the ropes. Mac was down several seconds, and rose with nose bleeding. Goddard crowded and drew blood from Mac's mouth.

In the fifteenth Mac was groggy in his own corner. Goddard sent him to his knees with a right hander and smashed him about the head with both hands as he rose. Near the other corner Mac threw in three good left stops; but Goddard dropped him to his knees with his right. Mac remained on his hands and knees with his head bent down for nine seconds, and when he rose helplessly Goddard, who had been to his corner, rushed on him and after a couple of blows sent him down near the ropes, where he was counted out. Goddard was borne to his chair by his seconds amid the cheers of the spectators.

Cincinnati and Chicago surprised the base ball world yesterday by playing a 20-inning tie game. It will be like looking at an old time Toledo game to read the score, as those two great Toledo favorites, Muliane and Gumbert were pitted against each other. It was not a pitchers' battle, however, as the fielding done on both sides was phenomenal. The score follows:

Good as this game was Tacoma and Seattle did better, Tacoma having won a 22-inning contest at Tacoma on May 16, 1891. The game was hotly contested. Donaghue was in the box for Tacoma and O'Neill and Keenan for Seattle. For Tacoma old Joe Ardner accepted all of his 15 chances on second base and Rutcliffe had ten put outs in left field. The record for long games is held by the Harvard College team, which played 24 innings at Manchester, May 11, 1877, without scoring a run. On Aug. 17, 1882, 1882, Detroit and Providence played a 1 to 0 18-inning game. The score of the Tacoma game was as follows:

Elyria, O., July 1.—The 10-mile road race given by the Elyria Bicycle club, took place in the presence of an immense crowd of people. The course laid out was from Broad street to North Ridgeville and return. The following were the prizes offered: First prize, silver cup, value $35; second, $25 gold medal; third, $15 mantel clock; fourth, $10 silver cup; fifth, $7 silk umbrella; sixth, $5 bicycle shoes; seventh, bicycle shirt; eighth, gent's silk sash. A special prize of a Garford bicycle saddle was offered to the winner of the race if made in 45 minutes or better.

There were 12 starters and they went off like a flash but gradually strung our along the course. The following is the time made by each: Bert Cuddeback, 35:54, winner of the race; C. S. Stetson, 36:26 1-2; A. Bates, 37:26; A. Beebe, 38:18 3-4; E. D. Chapman, 38:30; George Buswell, 38:49; C. M. Braman, 38:50; J. Proudfoot, 38:51; M. M. Ely, 38:52 1-2; H. C. Williams, 40:15 3-4; E. G. Lord, 42:17 3-4; D. L. Goldbach, 43:17 3-4. Mr. Stetson, second in the race, claimed he had to stop on the road and screw on his saddle, and thus lost the lead.

Mr. W. G. Sharp then offered a hat to the amateur who would beat the record which had been made over the same course and Mr. Josephi, of Cleveland, brought forward a young man, named Fred H. Brown, of Cleveland, who covered the ten miles in the fast time of 31:35. Considering the condition of the road it was a remarkable performance. Everything passed off in an orderly manner, and the race was managed in excellent shape throughout.

UPHELD JUDGE RICKS.

Judge Lacombe Concurs in the Opinion of the Cleveland Court.

Cleveland, July 1.—Judge Lacombe, of New York, in a case against the whisky ring brought under the Sherman law against Herbert H. Terrell, discharged the defendant and in the course of his opinion referred to a decision recently rendered in this city as follows:

"The points of law arising upon this indictment were all carefully considered by Judge Ricks, of Ohio, in his opinion filed June 11, 1892, on application for removal in the case of Corning and French. In that opinion I entirely concur, and the district attorney, apparently admitting the application, has discovered only the questions arising under the fourth count urging that the learned judge did not fully apprehend the averments of that court, and, therefore, erred in holding that no contract was averred by which the dealers obligated themselves to purchase exclusively from defendants and to sell at prices fixed. They were entirely free to buy from whom they pleased, and to sell at any price they chose. The statute does not prohibit the offering of special inducements to such purchasers as shall make all their purchases from a single concern, even though those inducements be so favorable as to accomplish their object. It is not the actual restraint of trade that is made illegal by the statutes, but the making of a contract which is intended to restrain trade. The petitioner should be discharged."

A GOSPEL TENT

To Be Erected, and Elder Updike Will Conduct Meetings.

The Evangelist, J. V. Updike, was in the city making arrangements for holding a large tent meeting next month, under the auspices of the Eleventh Street Church of Christ. It is expected to locate the tent near the corner of Vermont avenue and Bancroft street, on the Robison Belt line. The tent will seat about one thousand people. Prof. Hawes, who has been with Mr. Updike for five years, will have charge of the singing. This work will have the support of citizens generally, since it is gospel work pure and simple.

JUDGE SALA'S HORNS

Commenced to Sprout in Good Style Last Evening.

The orchestra took its place. There was a discordant jumble of sounds from the tuning instruments followed by a hush all over the house as the leader waved his baton and the curtain raised on one of the saddest dramas in the history of any town. Judge Sala played the leading part; that of a candidate for initiation and the members of the Toledo lodge of Elks strung out the other parts and capered nimbly as the mob, the army, peasants, nobles and sailors. The judge forgot his lines, but the pause was patched up by the howling populace. The grandest scene, perhaps, was when the judge was thrown from the cliff to the waters below, to the accompaniment of sheet iron thunder. His rescue and resuscitation was most thrilling. The judge is now an Elk.

SPECIAL DEPUTY DALE.

An Appointment by Grand Chancellor Dorn.

At the recent session of the Grand Lodge, K. P., at Columbus, it was determined to change the system of special deputies from the congressional district form to that of county, and the Grand Chancellor was authorized to make selections. This morning Mr. Elmer E. Dale received a commission to serve as such special deputy for Lucas county. The appointment is worthily bestowed. Mr. Dale is a member of Lucas lodge, No. 148, has always taken an interest in having work well rendered, and he will no doubt prove an acceptable official.

Other deputies in the counties in this part of the state are: Allen, F. C. McCoy; Defiance, F. L. Hay; Erie, I. J. P. Tessier; Fulton, Thos. F. Ham; Hancock, Chas. W. Benedict; Hardin, B. S. Young; Henry, D. C. Brown; Huron, W. O. Monnett; Ottawa, J. L. Trutton; Paulding, G. I. Chatterton; Putnam, A. M. Thompson; Sandusky, E. H. Russell; Seneca, F. E. Hershberger; Van Wert, W. C. Lawrence; Williams, F. L. Carter; Wood, J. B. Wilson; Wyandot, Jay A. Hare.

THE MANXMEN.

Who Recently Visited Toledo, Write Home of Their Experience.

In a recent number of the Ramsey Courier, Mr. J. R. Cowell has a letter reciting his observations while on his trip through the United States. The gentleman, with his friend of the same name, will be remembered as guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Kewley, who are themselves Manx people. The reference to Toledo is as follows:

After leaving Cleveland with regret, we travelled to Toledo, a journey of four hours. We were met by a large party of Manx friends, who greeted us with great heartiness. The next day being Sunday, I preached in a large Methodist church, St. John's, in the evening, and also visited the Sunday school, about which I shall have something to say when I return. Dr. Fish, the pastor of this church, preached in the morning, and I have seldom if ever heard a more powerful and eloquent man. He spoke of the writer and of the Isle of Man in very glowing terms. A crowd of Manx people met us after evening service, and the pleasure manifested in their faces, and by their warm handshaking was an experience I shall never forget. My friend addressed the large Sunday school, and made a very favorable impression upon all. I cannot tell your readers more than a very brief account of our experiences in the rapidly rising town of Toledo; and if ever the story is to be told of this, and other points of our journey, it will have to be told by some other means than by these hurriedly written letters. Let me, however, say, before leaving the city of Toledo, that we were overwhelmed with invitations, hospitality, and kindness. We really had little time for sleep. We had Manx parties every night but Sunday. I was twice interviewed. The address on Sunday night was published. The people vied with each other in doing us kindness. Days were devoted to taking us around. Nothing was spared that would in any way add to our comfort. Of the extensive manufactories, the newspapers, the public buildings, the trade, the growth, our visit to the oil an natural gas refineries, I must speak hereafter.

TIP DISAPPOINTED

A Cincinnati Methodist Prayer Meeting—He Had Good Reason.

Prince Tip's form is a very much desired article about this time, but he has made himself scarce. Last evening's Cincinnati Post has the following interesting information, going to show how easily some people may be fooled, and the remarks brought out by the discovery:

A disappointed congregation was that assembled at Walnut Hills Methodist church last night.

At last Sunday's services, Rev. McChesney, the pastor, announced that he had succeeded in procuring a promise from Tip-o-Tip, the noted Zulu prince, to address the church.

But prayer meetings passed and still no Java Tip-o-Tip, etc., was manifest. Just before the benediction Rev. McChesney stated that he had an announcement to make.

"I have learned," said he, "that the Zulu prince, Tip-o-Tip, who was invited to address us to-night, is an imposter and a member of a mob of thieves and cutthroats. A detective has been waiting for him at the church door, but as yet I do not believe he has put in an appearance.

"His credentials seemed correct. Among them were recommendations from Prof. Cook, of the East Tennessee university, at Athens, and other gentlemen, which I have since learned to be forgeries. I regret the disappointment of the congregation, and hope sincerely that the fellow will be captured, as he is a dangerous criminal."

Sensation prevailed as the good pastor concluded, and after benediction everybody adjourned to inspect the detective and brace of reporters who had been pacing the walk outside, closely scrutinizing each cable car approaching from the city for a glimpse of the rust-hued rascal.

Rev. McChesney stated to Post representatives that Tip-o-Tip had tearfully told him that his business manager had deserted him, taking with him some $200, all the finances of the party. He represented that he was stranded with the little colored lad who attended him.

All of the detectives at headquarters are on the case and the Tip-o-Tip is being searched for high and low.

Nothing as yet has been reported that would place him under suspicion in this city, but his work in other cities will warrant him a long stretch should he be captured.

The fellow is said to be an ordinary negro and not a Zulu at all. Chief Deitsch is anxious to make his acquaintance.

A. G. Palmer, of Peoria, Ill., speaking to a Bee this morning said that the Zulu prince Tip-o-Tip was at Peoria. He was feeling sick, he said, and was taken to the hospital. A detective, suspecting something wrong and thinking to pump Tip, appeared in the guise of a reporter. When the dectective had left the nurse told Tip that he had been talking to a detective. Tip said nothing, but when no one was looking he got out of bed, dressed himself and jumped out of the window, leaving his trunk and other effects behind him. He never showed up in Peoria afterwards.

HARRITY FOR WHITNEY

He is the Man to Run the Campaign.

Chances Were Never Better for a Gigantic Democratic Victory This Fall.

Philadelphia, July 1.—In an interview with a reporter William F. Harrity said last night that he was not only not a candidate for chairman of the democratic national committee, but would be compelled by reason of pressing business engagements to refuse to accept the position if it were tendered him.

"Your name is also connected with the chairmanship of the democratic national campaign committee."

"I have no desire for a chairmanship and am in no sense a candidate," said Mr. Harrity in reply, "but as a member of the national committee I shall give all the service in my power to the success of Cleveland and Stevenson."

"Will Mr. Whitney be the next chairman?"

"In my judgment Mr. Whitney is the natural choice for the place. He is peculiarly fitted for the din of national campaign work and his marvelous executive ability marks him as the one man above all others to take up the work.

"Tammany will be loyal to the ticket and Mr. Cleveland will be elected," was the conclusion to the interview.

HE HANDED IT BACK,

But His Actions Broke the Bank.

The National Savings Institution at Buffalo Will Lose its Charter.

Buffalo, N. Y., July 1.—The National Savings bank, which for 25 years has been the plaything of its treasurer, Edward S. Dann, is to close its corporate existence.

Deputy Attorney General Hogan has commenced an action for the dissolution of the corporate franchise of the bank, which is the usual proceeding taken to wind up an institution of this kind.

The depositors will not receive over 75 cents on the dollar, unless they can hold the directors and trustees liable.

Superintendent Preston says it will take 20 days for the examiners to finish their work. The shortage is increasing daily though not in the same ratio as at first. Dann's attorney says that enough additional property will be turned over to the bank to-day or to-morrow to make Dann's restitution $100,000.

THE AUSTRALIAN BALLOT.

The Right of a Voter to Scratch His Ticket Being Contested.

Springfield, Ill., July 1.—The question raised at Plano, Ill., as to the right of a voter, under the Australian ballot law, to scratch his ticket and vote for some person whose name is not printed on the ticket, is likely to be carried to the supreme court. At any rate, legal opinions disagree and no authority short of the supreme court can settle the important point. There are those who hold that no candidate can be voted for whose name is not on the ticket; that although a voter may scratch his ticket he must make a choice of candidates from those whose names are regularly printed on the ticket. Reed Green, chairman of the house committee on elections, who framed the Australian ballot law, is understood to take this view. Gen. Hunt, however, says that law does not forbid the scratching of a ticket in this way, and he holds that the voter has a right to vote for any one whom he chooses, no matter whether the name of such person is printed on the ticket or not.

A Sumatra newspaper tells of experiments made there last month to test the value of local petroleum as compared with American and Russian oils, and says the experiments "proved conclusively that it is superior in brilliancy, in permanence, and in absence of smoke, color and smell to either American or Russian oil." With the cost of freight deducted it is said that this Sumatra oil promises to be a formidable competitor with the American product in Japan, China, and the far eastern markets generally. The paper quoted says the Sumatra oil will be even cheaper than American without considering the freight question. Nothing is said, however, as to the probable extent of the supply.

RICE TELLS A STORY

Which Aims to Clear the Zulu Prince, Tip-o-Tip,

From Complicity in the Recent Diamond Robberies.

He Also Endeavors to Explain How He Came Into Possession of the Valuables — The Couple Still in Jail.

Much has been said of the recent diamond robberies and the subsequent arrest of two men named Rice and Wood, and the connection with Tip-o-Tip, the alleged African prince, had with the affair.

Rice expressed a desire to see a Bee reporter and an appointment was made with him at the jail. An interview of some length was had with the prisoners, which is given below, verbatum:

"I don't blame the papers at all for anything they have published against us, but I do blame the police officials for telling such falsehoods in regard to myself, Mr. Wood, and Tip-o-Tip. They have published us as being very dangerous burglars and haven't the evidence to prove it. In regard to Tip-o-Tip being a fake, the majority of the religious element of Toledo has heard the prince lecture, and anyone who has heard him can but admit that he is an earnest Christian worker.

"They have put him down as being the advance agent of a gang of burglars, and that he went to private residences under the pretext of selling his photos, and that he had been to the houses of the people who had been robbed, or claimed to be burglarized, which is not so."

"Why not so?"

"Because that is something he doesn't do. He sells photos at business houses, but he goes to no private houses.

"The papers stated that I said that Tip's mother took in washing in Milwaukee, which I have reasons not to believe, for the reason that I have seen proof that he was from Africa; that if I had any doubts as to his genuineness as being a real prince, I never would have associated with him at all. He and Mr. Woods are entire strangers, never seen each other but once, and never were introduced."

"How did you come to associate with Tip?"

"The first time I met Tip-o-Tip was one evening on Madison street. I was strolling down to take a ride on the Pastime."

"Can you remember when this was?"

"If I had my note-book I would pretty near know. It was about the 8th of June. Well, I met Tip-o-Tip buying a paper from a newsboy, and he was asking the boy if there was an account in the paper about Tip-o-Tip. The mention of the name attracted my attention and I stopped and looked at Tip-o-Tip and recognized him by the description given in the papers."

"Had you ever seen him before?"

"Never in my life. Out of curiosity I asked him if he was the Tip-O-Tip the papers were writing about. He looked out of the corner of his eye and smiled, which was enough to inform me that my surmise was true. He was searching the paper for an account of himself. He asked me if I could find anything in it about Tip-O-Tip, which I did. He asked me to read it for him and I told him it was too long to read then. He asked me to come to his room and read it for him. As I had nothing to do, I thought that he would prove interesting, so I went. On the way to the room he informed me he had advertised for a man to handle his money, and asked me if I was at liberty to devote my time in his behalf. Thinking that it was worth while looking after, I went to his room and read the account in the paper to him, and he asked me what I thought of him. I told him I thought he was very interesting, whereupon he asked me if I would travel with him and what I would want. At the time I was in business in New York city, and am yet, doing grading and excavating, as I own several teams, but for the sake of pleasure thought I could let business go for a month, and work for the benefit of the heathen in Africa, if it paid me well enough. He told an interesting story of his country."

"To Wood—"Was you with him, then?"

Wood——"No, but never mind about me; you neen't put that in."

Rice—"After finding out what his income was, it was agreed between us that I was to get $15 a week and my expenses for taking care of him and his money and help securing dates and selling photos.

"I had some doubts as to his being what he represented himself to be, whereupon he opened his trunk and showed me credentials, letters from Africa written in African language with African postage on them."

"How do you know it was written in the African language?"

"Because I couldn't make head nor tail of it, and that I never saw anything like it before in my life. He also showed me letters from his sister in Indianapolis, written in the Zulu language, which he read to me. He also showed me letters from Mrs. Stark, an African missionary, and other unmistakable proofs which put me beyond all doubt as his being an ordinary negro."

"After the agreements were made between us, he asked me what I was going to do that evening. I told him that if he didn't need me, I was going down on the steamer Pastime. As he had no engagement for that evening, he consented to accompany me. On the boat he attracted considerable attention, and we were plied by all kinds of questions and he informed the people on the boat that he was in my care. I was put to some embarrassment, when asked about the customs in his native country and his habits, and I was sorry that I had ever met Prince Tip-O-Tip. Some of the members of the Toledo Cycling club were so interested in us, that they gave us an urgent request to come over to the club house some evening, which we consented to do. After arriving in the city again, we separated at the Jefferson house, with the agreement that he should call for me at my hotel in the morning.

"In the morning he was on hand, and together we went to the photographer to see about some pictures of his. After leaving there we went to the Y. M. C. A. and secured a date for the following Tuesday. This was on Friday. (I'll get back at that nigger now). Then we separated and went to dinner. He promised to meet me in the evening at my hotel. He arrived at the hotel about 7 o'clock and came to my room, and there I cross-examined him about his history and habits. About half past eight we left to go to the colored M. E. church on Erie street, as he was to speak there a few moments, and to announce to them that he would lecture some day the following week. After the program of the evening had been rendered, we repaired to the basement for ice cream and cake, and they all began to shake hands with Tip-O-Tip and his secretary, asking all kinds of questions. Tip thought it was a splendid opportunity to dispose of some of his photos, and he took a number from his grip, and handed a few to the open-mouthed congregation. The people forgot their pocket books, but appreciated the value of the pictures, and when it came to gathering up the pictures given out, there were several missing, and couldn't be found. Tip became indignant, and but for me would have left the church in anything but a pleasant mood. I prevailed upon him to let the matter go.

"We went home and agreed to meet the next afternoon, which was Saturday. Tip failed to put in an appearance Saturday afternoon. Wondering what was the cause, I went over to the boarding house. They informed me that they expected him every moment. I went back to the hotel for supper and there found a telegram awaiting me, informing me that a horse and wagon had been stolen from me at home. I ate my supper and packed my valise, and on my way to the depot informed Tip-o-Tip's landlady that I would be back in two or three days. Business detained me one week, and I arrived on the following Sunday a week, with two other gentlemen, whom I met on the train."

Wood here objected, and said: "Never mind me, you can square Tip."

Rice—"They say we are a gang of thieves, and I want to show we are not. After breakfast I went over and informed Tip-o-Tip that I was back and would wait for him at the hotel.

"He appeared after supper Sunday evening, and said he had an engagement for that evening. I was very tired after my journey and he excused me for that evening, and I didn't see Tip again until Monday evening, when he informed me that he would be ready to leave the city some time during the following day. I waited all day Tuesday, but Tip failed to put in an appearance, and I went over to ascertain the cause, and was informed by the cook that he had left that morning with her trunk, and she didn't know where he had gone.

"I concluded the Zulu had given me the shake, for reasons unbeknown to myself. On the following day, as I was preparing to leave the city, I was arrested in company with Mr. Woods, upon suspicion and taken to the police station, and there they found in my possession articles of jewelry which they charged us with stealing the night before, when we can very easily prove the possession of if given a fair trial and more justice than what was extended to us in the police court, where they kept us in a cell closely confined six days, with no opportunity of communicating with any one except detectives.

"They brought us directly from the cell into the police court for examination, without giving us any chance to secure counsel or witnesses in our behalf. We were satisfied that the officer had the court prejudiced against us, when he refused to give us a continuance in order to give us an opportunity to prove our innocence.

"As to the jewelry that was found on my person. On Wednesday morning I went into the room where Mr. Woods and Dillon were rooming and there I saw in Mr. Dillon's possession a quantity of jewelry, diamonds and silverware, revolver and clothing, which attracted my attention, and I asked him what he was doing with so much jewelry. He hesitated for a moment and informed me that his brother had a pawnshop in New York city, and that he was traveling through the cities, buying up stock for the store, and asked me to look at some of his jewelry and diamonds. After examining his ware he commenced to tell me how cheap he bought this property. He told me that now was my opportunity if I wanted to buy some good diamonds and also jewelry. As I am engaged to be married I concluded that I would avail myself of this opportunity to procure some presents for my fiance. Thinking maybe he might be some kind of a fakir, and being no judge of diamonds myself, I asked permission to take them before a diamond dealer and have them examined, and on the way was arrested with these goods in my possession. I then came to the conclusion they probably had been stolen and threw them away on the road to the police station. After being confined in prison 24 hours I was informed by the detective that Mr. Dillon, of whom I got this jewelry, had left the city inside of an hour after our arrest, and next day I was informed by them that the night before Dillon had arrived in Cleveland, O., and there had committed burglaries precisely the same as the ones committed in Toledo and made good his escape."

Wood—"I was unfortunate enough to be in Mr. Rice's company at the time of the arrest, but know nothing of the affair only what I have heard, and I don't see on what grounds they can prosecute us for burglars, when there were no tools found in our possession or in our rooms, and the police fail to identify us in any way with the burglaries."

Secretary of the Interior Under President Hays is Against Harrison

New York, July 1.—The resignation of Carl Schurz from the directory of the Hamburg-American Packet company, and of the American affairs of which he has been practically manager for several years, went into effect to-day.

It has been reported that his resignation was due to his intention to take an active part on the stump in the impending canvass against President Harrison. This, however, is denied by the ex-statesman, who says that his action has no political significance. He declines, however, to say whether he proposes to take any part in the campaign.

TALL MEN OF THE PAST.

Turner, the naturalist, declared that he once saw, upon the coast of Brazil, a race of gigantic savages, one of whom was 12 feet in height. M. Trevit, of France, in his description of America, published in Paris in 1575, asserted that he saw and measured the skeleton of a South American, which was 11 feet 2 inches in length. The Chinese are said to claim that in the last century there were men in their country who measured 15 feet in height. Josephus mentioned the case of a Jew who was 10 feet 2 inches in height. Pliny tells of an Arabian giant, Gabara, 9 feet 9 inches, the tallest man in the days of Claudius. John Middletown, born at Hale, in Lancashire, in the time of James I., was 9 feet 3 inches in height; his hand was 17 inches long and 8 1-2 inches broad, says Dr. Platt in his "History of Staffordshire." The Irish giant, Murphy, contemporary with O'Brien, was 8 feet 10 inches. A skeleton in the museum of Trinity college, Dublin, is 8 feet 6 inches in height, and that of Charles Byrne, in the museum of the college of surgeons, London, is 8 feet 4 inches. The tallest living man is Chang-tu-Sing, the Chinese giant. His height is 7 feet 3 inches.

A Serious Dilemma.

The high-tax protectionists are in a peck of trouble, unforseen and seemingly, unavoidable. In September last, the English commissioners for the world's fair were here to meet the directors, and make positive arrangements for exhibits. Among other things concluded was the agreement that foreign exhibitors should be allowed to affix home-market prices to their goods. Sir Henry Wood, the royal commissioner from Great Britain, telegraphed this information to his countrymen and it was received with satisfaction. "In case of sale," explained Sir Henry, "the purchaser must pay the duty in addition to our selling prices, and the carrying charges, if the seller sees fit to so determine."

This was in September. In March last, the United States consul at Rheims wrote to the state department concerning price marks which foreign exhibitors might place upon manufactured woolens and other goods, and the answer, by Director Davis, through Assistant Secretary Wharton, was:

It would be obviously impracticable to permit exhibitors of foreign manufactures to place upon their wares prices which they might undertake to accept for the same, provided no tariff laws were in force in the United States.

This letter was sent to the foreign consul and upon its publication a protest of indignation was heard from the English commissioners who had the director general's pledge in the matter. Sir Henry Wood lost no time in communicating with Mr. Davis on the subject and received renewed assurance that the agreement with him would be adhered to, and that the second circular had been misinterpreted. The New York representatives of foreign manufacturers asked for a copy of the letter, or second circular, and were told they could not have it for publication "as other matters were included that must not now be made known." A representative of a London house accommodated the New Yorkers with a copy, from which the paragraph above quoted is taken. The oddest thing about it is the "other matters" referred to by the director general as reason why it could not be published, do not appear.

The English intending exhibitors charge breach of faith on the part of the director general, as his letter of instructions of March 11, ignores and nullifies the September agreement, and their New York representatives declare they will call a halt in preparations until the matter is fully explained and explicitly understood. It is now in order for Director General Davis to explain his explanation.

The English exhibitors (prospective) charge that the republicans dare not allow them to exhibit goods at home prices, fearing the effect on the McKinley tariff law theory. Commissioner Wright's official report shows that when the number of months in the year, and the hours a day, which the English laboring man is employed, are considered, the English workingman is paid more money for the year than the laborer similarly employed in America.

Now, to have the difference in prices of goods for everyday consumption, placed in plain figures before the people, would be to knock the last prop from under the high protective tax theory.

Verily it is a serious dilemma. But how silly, after all. Do these watchful protectionists suppose, that with one hundred thousand Americans shopping in the cities of the old world, people in this country can be kept in ignorance of difference in prices? Taken all around, the McKinley theory of taxation is in hard luck at the opening of the campaign.

The Prohibition Candidate.

Bidwell and Cranfeld is the ticket the Prohibs will shout for. The Cincinnati convention was about as lively with contests as either of the preceding ones. Gen. Bidwell is a man with a national reputation. His military record in the struggle of California for freedom and statehood is one of exciting interest. He is a man competent to fill the high office for which he is nominated, and his name is revered by all Californians. He is a consistent prohibitionist. No grape grown in his vineyard goes into the wine press, and his famous "Rancho Chico" is converted chiefly into grain fields, fruit and nut orchards. General and Mrs. Bidwell are famous for their charity and missionary work. On their ranche is a settlement of "Digger Indians" who have become civilized and Christianized; having their own little school and chapel. Mrs. Bidwell has taught them sewing and housekeeping, and their cabins under the fruit trees and rose vines are neat and home-like She went, herself, during Garfield's administration, to Washington to learn if, by special act, their little plats of ground could not be secured to them by deed, but her urgent request received no attention. She feared for the future of their children when the General and herself should pass away.

Of course, Gen. Bidwell expects nothing on the prohibition ticket but a large vote, and that he will doubtless receive, but he is not the man to be belittled by any politician or stump orator. He is a man of character, history, brains and principle.

Providing Against the Future.

A resolution pending in the national republican committee provides that at the next national convention one delegate shall be appointed for every 7,000 republican votes cast in the respective states, instead of two delegates from each congressional district. The object of this change is to strike a blow at the southern republicans who held the balance of power in the past five conventions, and to enable the northern states which cast a heavy republican vote to dictate the nominations. Almost any change would be an improvement on present republican methods. The record of the Minneapolis convention is too disgraceful for repetition.

Why the Force Bill Is an Issue.

There is an unwritten, but interesting bit of history of the Minneapolis convention that may explain the attitude of the republican party on the infamous Force bill. The balance of power in the convention was held by the southern delegates, many of whom were purchasable negroes. From Sunday, prior to the convention, until Wednesday, every possible influence, by word, act and money was brought to bear upon them by the leaders of the Blaine and Harrison factions. Appeals to prejudice and passion were characteristic of the speakers. The temporary chairman made the first allusion to the Force bill—seemed to throw it out as a feeler, and the responsive applause from the southern delegations was the cue for all the convention orators. Ex-Speaker Reed pounded the air in an announcement of the party issue, and the darkies fairly danced. McKinley followed, and the southern office holders yelled. It was started as a trick to catch the balance of power, but by the second day of the convention the eulogium of the Force bill was so extravagantly pronounced that the convention was obliged to embody its indorsement in the platform of principles. Now it is an issue, an issue so strong as to dominate all others in the south, and if ever there was democratic danger in West Virginia or the Carolinas, the Force bill will keep the voters in line for Cleveland. Thus is a convention incident turned to good campaign account.

The Republican Chairman.

The new chairman of the national republican committee is the man whom Senator Farwell recommended for Collector of Port of Chicago. President Harrison refused to make the appointment on the ground that "Campbell was a trading, tricky politician." Very likely these very qualifications are what induced Harrison to insist that Campbell should be chairman of his campaign committee this year. "Like master, like man" —the two are very similar, Harrison and Campbell, exceedingly tricky politicians.

The extent to which foreign contract labor fills the mills and mines of Pennsylvania, is shown pretty conclusively by the census report. In no state in the Union has the percentage of the male over the female population shown such increase—2.13 per cent. The per cent. gain, in this particular, has been 1.67 in the entire country. In 1890 in a population of 5,997,853 in New York, the females outnumbered the males 44,067: in Pennsylvania the males outnumbered the females 74,648 in a total population of 5,258,014—a difference of 118,715 between the two states. In the natural increase of population, no such disparity is shown. It is the foreign labor that comes in squads, leaving families behind, which swells the number

A woolen manufacturer of New England says, in print, that, on one kind of cloth which he manufactures, the tariff duty on the materials which enters into its composition aggregates 165 per cent. He says "Twenty-five per cent would be all the most exacting could ask of the high tariff people would let wool alone." Caluculate for yourself what price he must put upon these goods, for home consumption in order to be able to compete in foreign markets with their products. It is thus the protective tax "protects" the home, and benefits the foreign buyer.

The N. Y. Mail and Express waxes loud on the general and widespread prosperity of the country in city, hamlet and remote settlement. Its Wall street column is headed with the advice:

Now is the time to buy bonds. The July interest payments will be the largest ever known, and the money will be in the bond market. The bargains are being quietly taken up, but there is not a little money in taking up some of the cheaper and more speculative low-priced bonds.

The British parliament, just dissolved, had six years of existence, more or less stormy. If Gladstone is returned with a sufficient majority, home rule will be the leading issue in the new parliament. If Salisbury is returned, commercial retaliation against the United States and free trade treaties with other countries will lead.

The Boston Herald cites the names of Judge Gresham, Benjamin H. Bristow and Robert Lincoln as men whom the people desired but whom politicians would not permit them to have. The democratic party in the nomination of Cleveland listened to the voice of the people above that of the politician. It is the only party in which individual liberty has any show.

The Prohibitionists have succeeded in constructing an original tariff plank for their platform: tariff for retaliation only, and for revenue incidentally; the chief support of the government to be raised by levying a burden on what we possess and not what we consume. This is absolute free trade, dependent upon the action of other countries.

The Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Republic says of Chairman Campbell: "He is to Phil Armour and the Chicago beef and pork barons what John Sherman has always been to Wall street in the congress of the United States."

The New York Sun takes its medicine in allopathic doses. Mr. Dana is feeling so much better he has declared his preference for Wm. C. Whitney, of New York, for secretary of state, in the coming Cleveland administration.

J. Sloat Fassett gives the harmony boquet a fresh fragrance in this manner: "In insisting on the retirement of Clarkson the President has emphasized the fact that there are two wings of the republican party."

Mr. Carter, of Indian, the new secretary of the republican committee, is also a land office commissioner. Mr. Roosevelt's attention is called to the fact.

THE POPE TALKS.

The Question of Politics and Religion Talks.

Paris, July 1.—The Figaro publishes a letter from Pope Leo to the Bishop of Grenoble, in which he pope expresses regret that some professing Catholics allege that the recent injunctions of the Holy See were intended to affect political affairs.

The pope denies any desire to enter into political controversies, but he says that when the church and politics are closely bound together the pope will determine the action of the church.

The pope says that it is the duty of French Catholics to defend and foster the faith and the pontiff appeals to all honest men to co-operate in overcoming that sectarian persecution which is compassing the religious and moral ruin of France.

THE INDUSTRIAL PARADE

Reconsidered by the Central Labor Union.

It Will be a Go—Interesting Reports, Large Attendance and Important Business Transacted.

Does every man in Toledo belong to a union? was the question asked by a "looker-on," as the members and delegates of the Central body poured into Carpenters' hall last night, and the large assembly room was well filled when, at 8:30, President Booth called the meeting to order, and stated that a committee from the Brotherhood of Stationary Engineers were waiting in the ante-room, and desired a hearing. On motion, it was decided to listen to them, and the committee —Messrs. Young and Sullivan, were introduced. Their grievance is a clause in their constitution prohibiting them from belonging to a labor organization. The committee stated that their order was originally a school; its leaders are manufacturers, men of wealth and influence, and the brotherhood was instituted for their benefit. Now, a large number of the members are anxious to change the brotherhood into a union and they asked the assistance of the Central Labor union in the matter. "Our convention meets at Atlanta, in September," said Mr. Sullivan, "and our leaders are strong; if you conclude to assist us, you must strike from the shoulder. With your help, we hope to be able to accomplish our purpose in the convention, become a union, and derive the benefits that will accrue."

On motion of Mr. Voit it was decided to appoint a committee to draw up resolutions indorsing the proposition of the brotherhood, and present the same at the next meeting of the stationary engineers.

Reports of standing committees were next received.

The committee on national headquarters for the painters reported continued success in their canvass.

The Labor day committee reported that arrangements for the parade and picnic were progressing, and a motion to reconsider the matter of abolishing an industrial parade carried. On reconsideration it was decided to have an industrial parade.

The legislative committee reported that there is a law forbidding the opening of the markets for wholesale trade until after 11 a. m., but it is not possible to enforce it. A suggestion was made that the preachers be requested to take the matter in hand, as they have been successful in routing Sunday base ball.

The arbitrators in the trouble between the boss brewers and their men reported that the matter had been satisfactorily adjusted, the brewers complying gracefully with the demands made by the committee.

Petitions asking that the world's fair remain open on Sunday were distributed among the delegates.

The Central Labor union will apply for a charter under the American Federation of Labor, a resolution to that effect having been passed last night.

The following delegates presented credentials, and were admitted: Woodworkers, No. 19, Edward Spinner and Thos. Fitzgerald; printers, C. F. Holden and H. Crippen; pressmen, William Rorer; butchers, Nelson Cowdy, Charles Lutz; (No. 2), Christ Barth, John A. Bauer; iron molders, No. 172, Ferdinand Beier; woodworkers, 33, Herman Sitzenstack; working girls, Ella Dowell, Josie Blaser, Recka Fresch.

The much discussed matter of opening and widening Islington street, from Fulton to Cherry, came up again in the shape of an ordinance, and the people for and against it were represented before the committee by Attorneys Tracy and Kinney respectively. After much talk the ordinance was approved.

SHOT HIMSELF.

WILL WE GET THE CAMPS?

Officers of the Sixteenth and Second Regiments

Visit Presque Isle With a View of Selecting Camp Grounds—Toledo Will Extend a Cordial Welcome.

From present indications it is more than likely that Presque Isle will be quite a military resort this summer. Both the Sixteenth and the Second regiments are negotiating to make their camp there, and yesterday committees from both regiments visited the grounds. The committee from the Sixteenth consisted of Col. H. S. Bunker, Toledo; Major Lemmon, Clyde; Surgeon Osborn, Norwalk; Assistant Surgeon Myers, Fostoria; Capt. Bulger, Co. D, Fostoria; Capt. Ashton, Co. E, Bryan; Capt. Reynolds, Co. F, Napoleon; Capt. Gillette, Co. I, Clyde; Capt. Wade, Co. C, Toledo; Capt. Weier, Co. A, Toledo, and Capt. Holbrook, Co. H, Toledo.

These gentlemen were entertained at dinner on the island, and afterward they were escorted about the park and the camp grounds by Passenger Agent Clark and Capt. Boyce. The majority of these gentlemen favor camping at Presque Isle, and expressed themselves as much surprised as well as pleased at the excellency of the site offered for a camp.

In the afternoon Lieut.-Col. Collins, Cincinnati, and Capt. Kuert, Kenton, both of the Second regiment, were taken to the grounds by Mr. Quale. To a Bee they stated that their regiment would probably camp here. They camped at Presque Isle two years ago, and were so well pleased with the place that both officers and men are anxious to return.

A STRIKE OVER.

River Firemen and Engineers Go Back to Their Posts.

St. Louis, July 1.—The strike of the river engineers and firemen is believed to prove a failure. A conference was held between the strikers' committees and the Anchor line officials. Yesterday the strikers agreed to forego all claims for a uniform scale and their demand that no non-union men be employed.

In consideration of these concessions the Anchor and Valley lines will employ as many of the strikers as they have places to fill, and will rescind their order forbidding the employment of members of the American Federation of Labor.

KILLED BY A CAVE-IN.

Providence, R. I., July 1.—Four men were killed while at work yesterday laying the stone abutment to a railroad bridge under Broad street in this city. The bank above them caved in, completely burying Patrick Sullivan, Leroy Libby, Pietro Grande and Pasquale Diorio. The other workmen were partially buried but were rescued alive.

CASALAS HAS FLED.

Trinidad, W. I., July 1.—Francisco Casalas, who was Palacio's representative in Bolivar, fearing the vengeance of the Crespoists, has fled here for safety. He has no confidence in the stability of the government of Villegas, and feels confident of the ultimate triumph of Crespo. The latest news which has reached here from Venezuela is decidedly in favor of the revolutionists.

AMONG RAILROADERS.

A Few Liners of Interest Locally.

Western Lines are After the Scalpers —Toledo Railway Yardmasters —Personal Mention.

Local passenger men have of late been receiving notices from the western lines regarding stop-over privileges. One received this morning from the Chicago, Burlington & Northern is a sample and illustrates their general trend. It states that the practice of issuing stop-over checks will be discontinued, as well as the granting of stop-over privileges on all kinds of tickets limited or unlimited. All tickets coming from foreign roads will be honored only for continuous passage. The western roads are evidently making another attempt to freeze out the scalpers.

Railway Yardmasters.

Toledo division of the Railway Yardmasters' association, has passed the following resolutions:

Whereas, It has pleased an All-wise Providence to remove from our midst one of our beloved members, Brother James J. Fanning, of division No. 6, Toledo, O., who died June 8, 1892, and,

Whereas, We are called upon to mourn his untimely death, it teaches us that truly in the midst of life we are in death, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the members of division No. 6 do tender to the family of our deceased brother our heartfelt sympathy. May the widow and the fatherless children look to Him in their bereavement, who has ever said He would be a husband to the widow and a father to the fatherless.

Cinders Here and There.

O. Warner, traveling passenger agent of the C., B. & Q., is in town.

The Toledo & Ohio Central is handling about 200 cars of coal a day at present.

W. H. Connor, commercial agent of the Southern Pacific, arrived in the city last evening.

John Hendricks has been appointed commerical agent of the Cotton Belt at Cincinnati.

Geo. W. Berns, traveling freight agent of the Queen & Crescent route, is in the city to-day.

Superintendent W. R. Woodford, of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad, is down the line to-day.

President S. R. Callaway, of the Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City road, is in New York still.

General Superintendent T. M. Peelar, of the Ohio Central lines, is spending a week at Middle Bass.

The New York Central directors have declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1 1-4 per cent.

General Manager A. G. Blair, of the Wheeling & Lake Erie railroad has an elegant new private car.

The meeting of the rate clerks in this territory will be held at Chicago to-morrow to compile the July rate sheets.

During the first half of this year 1,190 miles of new road were constructed in the United States, about 500 less than last year for the same period.

A. G. Palmer, general agent of the Peoria, Decatur & Evansville railroad, is calling on friends in Toledo to-day. He is on his way to Norwalk to visit his relatives.

The railroad men who are to play for the benefit of the Boy's Home to-morrow will meet in the St. Clair building at 2:30 p. m. and go out to the park together.

The Burlington officials deny that they have furnished tickets to Chicago scalpers. It was stated at the Union ticket office this morning that business to New York had never before been so lively as it is at present.

The committee appointed by the Order of Railway Telegraphers went to Whitmore lake yesterday to look at the picnic grounds. They will decide between that place and Devil's lake for their picnic.

John Gunckel, district passenger agent of the Lake Shore, says that about 300 delegates to the Y. P. S. C. E. convention in New York, will come from the various small towns hereabouts to Toledo and go east on the Lake Shore.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Mr. Harrison may have delayed the appointment of a secretary of state through apprehension of the ceaseless rattling that is likely to ensue in putting a republican statesman into Mr. Blaine's shoes.—Louisville Commercial (Rep.)

If it makes it easier for any weak-backed democrats to support Grover Cleveland, to believe that he wanted "a straddle" on the tariff question in the democratic platform, the delusion may help them without hurting him. The American people know Mr. Cleveland pretty well, and they know whether it is like him to hide his convictions to catch votes.—New York World (Dem.)

Nobody knew why Harrison insisted so on having Campbell of Chicago in charge of his campaign until Senator Vest recalled the fact that Campbell was the agent of the Dressed Beef Trust who followed the senate investigating committee all over the country trying to defeat its objects. Then there was no further need for explanation.—St. Louis Republic (Dem.)

The protest against and denunciation of the federal elections bill, passed by the house of the Fifty-first congress, which the democrats incorporated in their platform, is based upon the old extreme states' rights theory that the federal government has no right to control federal elections. There is no straddle in the democratic platform on this point; the meaning is clear and unmistakable.—Boston Traveler (Rep.)

An analysis of the nominating vote shows that it was the vote of territories and the District of Columbia that gave Cleveland his necessary two-thirds majority. As the territories and the District of Columbia have no electoral votes the fact that their help to Cleveland was decisive fairly offsets the statement that Harrison was nominated by states that could give him no electoral votes. —Louisville Commercial (Rep.)

If William C. Whitney is willing to take the chairmanship of the democratic national committee, and to assume the active management of the democratic campaign, there will be a very generous holding up of hands in favor of his selection. His accomplishments as an organizer of victory and his intimate acquaintance with affairs in New York would make his selection a peculiarly fitting one, and it would inspire the democrats everywhere with a confident hope of triumph that is a forerunner of victory.—Boston Herald (Ind.)

The voter must not be deceived by talk about the necessity for protecting industries in their earlier stages of development. Experience within the last year has shown that the pay of workingmen was not increased by high tariff laws. And even if it were otherwise—even if the effect were not to concentrate wealth in the hands of a few powerful persons—the principle would be the same. It will not do to say that the end justifies the means if a dangerous and undemocratic principle is to be adopted.—New York Telegram (Dem.)

TWO REAL ESTATE DEALS

John S. Kountz Sells a Forty Acre Tract.

He Also Sells a Valuable Piece of Property to Helen M. Hulce.

Real estate sales are on the boom just now, and besides several large transactions pending, quite a number of important sales have taken place within a day or two.

One of the largest of the season dropped through this morning, but may be consummated yet, in which event Toledo will have another important industry.

To-day Mr. J. S. Kountz sold a valuable tract of 40 acres of land in Washington township to Henry Hagman, of this city. The consideration was private.

To-day Mr. Kountz also closed sale of sub-division 5 and 6 of lot 1084, Vistula division, Champlain street, to Helen M. Hulce for $3,000.

Fred Kunzler closed a $2,000 deal today, and the number of small sales were never so large as at present.

The demand is good, and Toledo is taking an upward and onward growth in a way that elsewhere would be called a boom.

LAWN TENNIS.

Reports of the Games Played in Orange, N. J.,

Orange, N. J., July 1.—The weather was not propitious yesterday for good tennis and the courts of the Orange Lawn Tennis club were in a very unsatisfactory condition. EDUCATORS.

Preparations for the National Meeting in Saratoga.

Saratoga, N. Y., July 1.—Arrangements are rapidly progressing for the coming convention of the National Educational association. According to the present estimates over twenty thousand people will be present.

Hon. George William Curtis has agreed to deliver the address of welcome at the opening meeting, and the speakers during the session will include Grover Cleveland, President Elliot, of Harvard; ex-President Hayes, Miss Francis Willard, Chancellor Canfield, Gov. Flower, President Hyde, of Bowdoin, and Mrs. Mary Livermore.

GARFIELD'S DISTRICT.

Stephen A. Northway Nominated on the Ninth Ballot.

Warren, O., July 1.—The nineteenth district republican congressional convention adjourned last night, after the nomination of Stephen A. Northway, of Ashtabula county. Northway received the required number of votes on the ninth ballot. His nomination is equivalent to an election, as the republicans have a majority of nearly 10,000 votes in the district. Northway succeeds Judge E. B. Taylor, who was elected as Gen. Garfield's successor, 12 years ago.

CONFLICTING REPORTS.

New York, July 1.—The World this morning has a special story of the sinking of the ship Fred B. Taylor by the steamship Trave, from a representative who was on board the latter vessel, in which it says that First Officer Meissel, who was in charge of the Trave at the time, seeing it was the best thing to do for the safety of the ship, deliberately cut the sailing vessel in two.

DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMAN.

New York, July 1.—Wm. C. Whitney will not accept the chairmanship of the democratic national committee. "A great many persons have been good enough to mention my name in connection with the position," Mr. Whitney said yesterday, "but I will not take it under any circumstances."

WILL ISSUE BONDS.

Norwalk, July 1.—(Special)—The railroad election in this city yesterday to vote $30,000 for the aid of the Sandusky, Ashland & Southern road, carried by a large majority. Total vote cast 1,173. For bonds, 921; against, 252. A majority of 139 over the required two-thirds.

"It has cured others and will cure you" is true only of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. The motto suits the medicine and the medicine the motto. What better assurance could you have hat a remedy will cure you, than the fact that it has cured such multitudes of others?

WEDDED.

Upper Sandusky, O., July 1.—Charles W. Kramer, formerly of this city, now foreman of the Journal office, Marysville, O., was married yesterday to Miss India, daughter of Officer J. C. Dunn.

THE DELUSIVE MOMENT.

Come, get the woven hammock out
And swing it 'twixt the trees,
Where in the shade by green leaves made
We love to take our ease.
Oh, swing it not too high above,
Nor yet again too low,
But tie it fast; in seasons past
It's played me tricks, you know.
And oh, be sure to hang it straight,
Avoiding spiral curves,
For well I wot of how I got
This tremor in my nerves;
And if your daughter you would keep,
Nor have her wedded soon—
I see you frown—then take it down
When shines the summer moon.

One of the eastern resorts advertises that it has the "best family beach in America."

There is a man in Montezuma, Ga., who has had his arm dislocated at the shoulder thirty-eight times and his leg dislocated at the hip eight times.

A Chicago physician was arrested by a thick-witted policeman who saw the doctor enter a house with his satchel and concluded he was peddling or canvassing without a license.

Probably the greatest pedestrian feat of the century performed in England was that of Bob Carlisle, who completed in 1883 the unprecedented feat of walking 5,100 miles in 100 days.

After a terrible battle for supremacy, Charles Turner and eight companions at Cape May Point succeeded last Thursday in landing the first sea fox or thresher shark ever seen there. It measured 12 feet from tip to tip, anw weighed over 1,200 pounds.

The most ancient piece of music which is still in existence is called the "Blessing of the Priests." This song or chant was sung in the temple at Jerusalem, and is still to be heard in the Hebrew synagogues in Spain and Portugal.

Some boys in Murray county, Georgia, claim that they saw a blacksnake run at full speed down a steep hill and jump ten feet high and capture a sapsucker, which was drilling a hole in the bark of a pine tree with its sharp beak.

A lock on the door of a house in Plymouth, England, on being taken to pieces for repairs, was found to contain an inscription stating that it was formerly on the door of the chamber at St. Helena in which Napoleon breathed his last.

Envelopes were first used in France in the time of Louis XIV. In the Egerton collection of manuscripts at the British Museum there is an envelope, something like those of the present day, which contains a letter written by Madame Pompadour in 1760.

The only woman Doctor of Music in Great Britain, except the Princess of Wales, is Annie Wilson Patterson. She had studied Greek, Latin, French, Italian and Celtic before she was fifteen, and became musical director of the Dublin Choral Union after a course in the Royal Irish Academy of Music.

The most thickly-settled part of the world, which was between Ridge and Pitt, Rivington and Stanton streets, New York, has lost part of its population by the pulldown of most of the Rivington street side. It is a small block, and it had 2,953 people before part of the tenementhouses were pulled down.

The lobster smack Jessie McGregor, which arrived at Portland the other day from Monhegan, brought a carrier pigeon that landed on the island June 1, and was captured by fishermen. On one of the bird's wings were the figures 7,460, while each leg was encircled by a silver band, one with "7, C. B. C," and the other the same figures as the wings.

The rising generation in the Indian territory has reached the front rank in the march of civilization and are keeping right up with the procession. The young ladies of the female seminary at Talequah, the Cherokee capital, have arranged to give a leap year ball this week and the young men of Eufala, in the Creek nation, are organizing a cornet band.

"The German Society for the Prevention of Wholesale Slaughter of Birds for the Purpose of Millinery" is preparing a signed petition to be presented to the queen of Italy during her visit to Berlin in June, begging her to use her influence to prevent the constant slaughter of small birds in Italy, where some of the most beautiful species are becoming extinct.

The Farmer's Alliance in Norfolk, England, appears to be as thoroughly organized a trade union as exists. Four young laborers who wanted 13 shillings a week refused to go to work for 12 shillings, and they got a job on the Great Eastern railway. In two weeks three of them lost their places on account of the pressure brought to bear upon the railway by the Farmers' alliance.

The London county council has passed this resolution: "That all contractors be compelled to sign a declaration that they pay the trade union rate of wages and observe the hours of labor and conditions recognized by the London trades unions, and that the hours and wages be inserted in and form part of the contract by way of schedule, and that penalties be enforced for breach of agreement."

Major Allatt, of the British army, thinks that ducks would be preferable to pigeons for carrying naval dispatches over the sea, because they would drop down and sit on the water when tired, and resume their flight after resting. Moreover, ducks can fly by night, while pigeons can not. Major Allatt also suggests that sea gulls might be trained for message bearing.

The French appropriations for 1893 will be 645,000,000 francs for the army and 280,000,000 francs for the navy. Ninety-eight new vessels are in course of construction, of which eight ironclads are to be finished next year. Twenty-one new cruisers will be launched by 1896. Sixty-two torpedo boats are to be built, and the Bank of France has 1,447,000,000 francs in gold in its vaults; more than any other European nation.

President Andrews, of Brown university, tells the following neat story: "A veteran of the civil war who recently died was in the habit of relating his war experience by the hour to his family, always making out that his achievements in all the great battles finally won the day. His son, a bright little fellow of 10 years, getting rather tired of these stories, asked his father one night, 'Say, pa, why didn't President Lincoln help you put down the rebellion?'"

Benares, the religious center of all India since countless generations before Christ, is described as a city which bears the same relation to Hindooism (or Buddhism) that Bethlehem did and does to Christendom. Its origin cannot, it is said, be traced by man. It was occupied by hundreds of thousands of people over six centuries before our Christian era. There are 500,000,000 people in the world who bow to the Buddhist faith—worshiping as devoutedly as ever Christian worshipped Christ.

TOLD IN PANTOMIME.

They called him "Slug 21" upstairs in the composing room, says the San Francisco Chronicle, but it made no difference to him. He never heard them. He was deaf and dumb.

He came downstairs yesterday afternoon and appeared before the man who "does" sports. The galley boy—known to people who know nothing about printing offices as "the devil"—was with him. Unto the man who does sports he made sundry signs and motions.

"He wants to know," said the galley boy, "if you can't send 'im to the baseball game in Oakland, an' I'm to go along. We'll come back an' tell you about it."

Slug 21 nodded in acquiescence, and after certain plans and specifications, contracts and indentures were drawn up the dicker was made.

"He can't talk with his mouth," explained the galley boy, "but we have languages that is out o' sight."

Late in the evening the two returned from Oakland and entered the sporting man's domain. The printer took a chair, and, leaning far back, breathed eight times like a tugboat pushing in an Australian steamer. Then he shook his head.

"Them's one o' his languages," observed the galley boy. "He says it was a good game and didn't make him tired."

The memorandum being made, the printer stood erect, pointed toward the south, drew an imaginary circle in the air, pointed at it and shook his head again. Then he swung one arm at his side with the measured regularity of a pendulum.

"Which mean," said the galley boy, "that San Jose wasn't much in it at any time."

Slug 21 assumed the air of a batsman, swung himself and pointed toward the bay.

"Them things mean," the galley boy observed, "that the blistin' was bully. 'See him mop his forehead? He means the fielders was kept a-sweatin'."

The printer unwound an imaginary rag from his finger and held up his hand twice. Once more he shook his head. Then he pointed toward high heaven.

"Them's some more languages," the galley boy remarked. "He means the first two innin's wusn't worth the wrappin' o' your finger, excepting for Pete Sweeney's jump for a ball a mile high."

The sporting man made a note of it and the deaf and dumb man proceeded.

He made a wild sweep with his arm. Then he assumed the attitude of a man pitching a ball and pointing over to left dropped both hands. He pointed directly behind him and to the left once more, held up three fingers, swept 'round with his arm again, and leaped into the air.

"Ain't them perfect languages?" inquired the galley boy, admiringly. "He say the first man to bat in the third, which his name was McGuckin, hit safe and that the next, Everett, was t' run out from the pitcher. An' then that Ebright was t' run out from second, but the plays sent McGuckin to third. Then Dooley hit an' he come in. Ain't it plain? Them's the San Joses. Look at him?"

Slug 21 clapped his hands together four times and drew a magic circle in the air.

"No more runs for four innin's more," the galley boy translated. Slug 21 held up a hand and pointed at the one finger he held up on the other hand.

"The first man went out on first in the eighth," the boy murmured. The printer held up another finger.

"So did the nex'."

Then Slug 21 knocked the last copy of the Congressional Record, "The Government and the Pacific Railroads," "Goodwin's Turf Guide," and the "Clipper Almanac" from a neighboring desk and looked with a smile on the work he had done.

"Everett made a hit after Harper an' McGuckin was out at first," announced the boy. The printer pointed toward the ocean, shut his fist, and with the other hand held up three fingers. "The third-baseman of San Francisco made a wil' throw," was the way the boy saw it.

Then the printer wound himself into a knot, clapped both hands together and smiled.

"Ebright made a hit an' scored Everett," said the galley boy. "That's all the runs they made."

The deaf and dumb man now pointed down toward Montgomery street to indicate that he was going to talk about San Francisco. He shook hands with himself five times.

"Which language means," said the boy, "that San Francisco makes five runs an' wins the game." Particulars came later.

EASTERN JUGGLERY.

The Captain Thought There was a Murder Committed.

The wonderful feats of East Indian jugglers have formed the theme of many a letter from travelers in the orient, but none are more surprising than that of which an old sea dog now lying at the water front, vouches.

When he was an officer on board the P. and O. steamer, two natives came aboard at Madras, he says. They were a juggler and his assistant.

After they had performed a number of their feats and gathered quite a crowd around them, they called for a sack and a piece of sail cloth.

[illegible] been provided, the chief juggler made a small tent-like structure of the canvas and some stools. He then placed his assistant in the sack and allowed a sailor to tie the knot which bound him a fast prisoner.

This done the chief carried the sack into an open space, warning the people to stand back some distance, and then carried on an animated conversation with his assistant, whose replies could be distinctly heard coming from the sack.

Suddenly the chief rushed forward, picked up the sack and dumped it overboard, where, to the horror of the passengers and crew, it sank out of sight.

Immediately the captain rushed forward and seized the man, under the full belief that he had murdered his companion, but the juggler only smiled, and, pointing to the canvas, asked that he be raised.

This was done and the supposed drowned man was discovered squatting on the deck. So realistic had been the throwing overboard, however, that it was some time before the surprised passengers could [illegible] not been committed.

—San Francisco Call.

One of the most successful misers on record died recently at Charlottenburg, Germany, having accumulated more than 250,000 marks. The old man lived in the meanest part of the town in a miserable room, and during long periods of illness he was nursed by a poor family living on the top floor of the house. He left all his money to this family, giving a clergyman his will for safe keeping.

Tablets found in Egypt at Tel-el-Amarna contain among other curious records the letters sent by a king of Egypt about 1,500 B. C. to a king of Babylon denying that he had ill-treated one Babylon wife and asking for another. These tablets are now the property of the British museum.

THE BOSS SECTION GANG.

It Included a Doctor, a Coroner and a Parson.

Superintendent Elliot Holbrook of the Baltimore & Ohio road, said he did not believe any road in the country could turn up, like the Baltimore & Ohio, a section gang with a county coroner, a doctor of divinity, an ex-member of the legislature and an emergency physician. He has been out along the line for a week and tells a story of an experience he had while his car was lying at Sand Patch a night or two ago. The foreman of a gang came up to him and said:

"There is more talent to the square inch in that gang on the fur side of that mountain than I have ever met with since I was at the last dimocratic state convention."

Mr. Holbrook asked the foreman what he meant, and the foreman continued:

"I was coming up the hill from work with my gang a bit ago, and when a few rods below Philson's we found the body of a man lying beside the track. His body was yet warm, and I said, 'I wish I had a doctor here,' said I half to myself.

"'I guess I can answer in a pinch,' said one of the men of the gang.

"'What do you know about such things?' I asked with some show of contempt.

"'Oh, I took a term in the old Jefferson Medical college years ago, but didn't take to practice and quit.' All this time he had been rummaging the body, and in a minute said: 'He's dead.'

"'Well, I'll leave two or three of you here to watch the body while I get a coroner or a 'squire to hold an inquest,' said I. 'The rest of you can come with me.'

"'I guess as I am coroner of the county I'll do,' said another mud-covered citizen.

"'You!' said I to him.

"'Oh, yes; I was elected last fall.'

"'Well, go ahead.' He took six of the gang and held an inquest and returned a verdict of accidental death.

"'Well, that's done: put him in the handcar and we'll take him up and get a coffin and a preacher and bury him,' I said to the men.

"'What's the use?' said a man of the gang who hadn't said a word till now. 'I am a minister and always have a Bible with me. Let's hold the services right here. Let the others dig a grave up there under that big hemlock and we'll bury him without further trouble.'

"Acting on his suggestion, the grave was soon dug, the body carried to its side, and then the 'minister' took hold. He read a chapter, gave out a hymn, as he called it, which the men sang, and then he delivered one of the most feelin' an appropriatist funeral sermons I ever heard. It was out of sight, and nearly every one of us was putty moist before he quit. There wasn't nothin' in it at all resemblin' my church, but it caught me, 'cause it was simple and as powerful as the dynamite we had been using all day.

"Like the doctor, the gospel fellow had had his innings in a school and seminary, but a woman scrape or a Parkhurst expedition had downed him and he was unbeknownst to himself doing really big now. What struck me all of a heap was the fact that I, who was bossin' the gang, could only 'touch the pen' to make my signature on the pay rolls, and all the fellows under me were either M. D.'s, D. D.'s or D. B.'s. Great country this.—Pittsburg Times.

Republicans Furnishing Campaign Material

For the Democrats to Use This Fall.

Quay, Reed, Clarkson, Fassett and Wolcott Laughing at Harrison in His Ante-Election Misery.

Washington, July 1.—The president, aided by Secretary Elkins and Secretary Foster, his two cabinet lieutenants, began the campaign for his re-election by capturing the organization of the republican national committee.

It is to be a personally conducted campaign, but everything that is done here is to be done as quietly as possible, and of course in the name of the national executive committee in New York.

The president's sweeping victory in the national committee illustrates his political methods as well as his political ability and adroitness, for it was so quietly won that his opponents did not know until the last minute that they were beaten.

Indeed, Chairman Clarkson went to the White House believing that he still had a majority of the committee, and that when he announced that fact to the president the latter would quietly acquiesce in his re-election to the chairmanship.

His astonishment may be imagined when, having told the president that forty-one or forty-two members of the committee wanted to re-elect him chairman, the president coolly said that he must be mistaken, for a majority of them, like himself, wanted another chairman, one who had desired the renomination and therefore might be supposed to desire the re-election of the president.

Clarkson hurried back to learn from Foster that the president knew what he was talking about and that the administration now had a majority in the committee. There was then nothing left for the anti-Harrison men to do except to glorify each other and revile the administration.

Ex-Speaker Reed lunched at the senate restaurant this afternoon with Senator Quay and Senator Cameron, each of the three representing a certain element in the republican opposition to President Harrison. They were in so happy a mood as to attract the attention of others in the room.

They were laughing over the "harmony" which now prevails among the leaders of their party as exhibited in the national committee meeting and in remarks which have been made since it adjourned.

They were also laughing at the prospect that the personally-conducted campaign of President Harrison would come to a disastrous end. They, with Clarkson, Platt, Fassett and the other party managers, who have been set aside by President Harrison, propose to abide by his determination, and let him carry on his campaign without interference or interposition on their part.

They do not think he can succeed without them, and without the votes which they represent, even if the new chairman of the national committee can get large contributions from his clients of the dressed beef trust, or from his constituents of the whisky trust, while the sugar and other protected trusts in the east are giving generously to the new treasurer of the committee, and the Pacific coast missionaries are loading up the new vice chairman.

The anti-Harrison leaders confidently expect to see Harrison defeated. They think Cleveland will carry New York, New Jersey and Connecticut and, as Fassett estimated in his remarks at the national committee meeting yesterday, that Illinois, Wisconsin and even Iowa are doubtful, and Massachusetts probably so. Wolcott says Harrison cannot carry Colorado, Idaho and Montana.

THE GIRL ON SHIPBOARD.

If She Is Not Seasick She Reigns With Absolute Sway.

A pretty woman always has a good time wherever she goes, but nowhere is this fact better exemplified than on shipboard, where a young girl absolutely reigns supreme.

If she does not succumb to mal de mer she can count on having the best time of her life, and it is not so important that she be even pretty to have just as much fun as a raving beauty. All she needs is a happy disposition, a desire to please, a thorough enjoyment of little things and a vein of sentiment, and the men and the glorious sea air will do the rest.

In the seven or eight deliciously lazy days on the ocean betwten here and the old world acquaintance ripens into friendship and frequently into love with astonishing rapidity when one thinks of the weeks and months of formal meetings necessary to such a consummation on dry land.

But how can it be otherwise? To begin with, the steamer chair is quite as much an agent of cupid's as is the traditional bow and arrow.

Stretched out side by side in the depths of these comfortable lounging places, with silken cushions, a book of poetry or prose, a sparkling sea and a sky as blue as a maiden's eyes, is it any wonder that the man and woman so situated should drift from the prosiac happenings of life into that sweeter realm of sentiment that lies only just beyond.

The novelty of the life stirs one in every vein. The great throbbing engines seem veritable monsters of the deep as the royal vessel ploughs her way through the rolling, tossing billows, and one land is left far behind as another is made to approach steadily closer and closer. Then the exhilaration of the evening stroll on the broad deck, when the glorious moon sheds a great silver path far out on the dancing waves and the night air is undisturbed, save by some minor strain that floats up from the steerage, where the happy emigrants are returning to their native home.

Does guitar or banjo ever sound so sweet as during those long, lovely hours when all earthly cares seem to have been left in the land beyond the horizon? The girl who cannot make a man think her adorable under such circumstances is not worthy the name. Everything conspires to turn the prosaic business man into the sentimental lover, who is at least on shipboard the abject slave of the woman with whom he is thrown most.

The smoking room is her only rival and the girl with youth and feminine tact who cannot offset the attractions of that very mysterious den when sea and sky conspire to help her, we fear will need a miracle to bring a single worshipper to her shrine. Nowhere is woman so appreciated as at sea, and if she has the least bit of fineness about her she can hold a little court that will last from shore to shore, and who knows but some knight may still continue to worship when they have again reached terra firma?

HOW TO COUNT MONEY.

The Rush at the Doors of Circusses and Other Big Shows.

The waiting crowd surges about the "business end" of the wagon, and meantime the two dispensers of tickets have seated themselves on a little bench just inside. Suddenly the word is given, and an attendant pulls a strap, hoisting the windows, and the business commences. Not a word do these young men have to say to each other or to their customers. Their eyes are looking at fists of all sizes and descriptions full of money, and from right to left and then back again they capture the clutched coin and bills, moving from side to side, enabling all to have an equal chance.

Directly a coin or bill is received it is placed on a shelf on a level with the seller's arm until the next patron has made place for the next in line, then it is thrown into a huge wicker basket on the floor at his feet.

This retention of money in sight for a moment is in order to effectually settle any dispute by an excited buyer who might be inclined to question the accuracy of his change or the amount he had paid him. It seems almost an unnecessary precaution, however, as these young men never get "rattled," and have no time to talk or argument.

After the rush was over yesterday, Mr. Callan consented to talk about the difficult art which embraces accuracy and speed to no limited extent, and after modestly admitting that it was an expert profession in which big salaries were paid to the "masters," said:

"We never look at faces—always at the hand that holds the money. That once secured and the ticket or tickets and change thrust into it, then on to the next."

"Suppose some one bothers you with questions or annoys you in any way so as to interfere with your sale, what do you do?"

He laughed as he pointed to a fat man standing by. "At a signal that man gets directly in front of the fractious one, and by the simple process of moving backward gradually, all the time treading on his corns, the line is opened, and by the time the crank has gotten on the outside we have sold hundreds of tickets.

"We have a plentiful supply of change, and do not touch the money received.

"Counterfeit money we do not fear; we can almost tell it by the smell a mile off, and the only notice we take of it is to whisper one to the other, 'bad stuff! Where is the officer?' and the dishonest one who has offered it can scarcely get away quick enough. Think of a man coming up and asking for thirteen whole and seven half tickets and slapping down a handful of bills and silver to pay. It takes a quick brain and a steady head and hand to instantly complete the transaction, but, with the variations as to place and detail, it occurs so continually that it is almost as easy as taking a fifty-cent piece and handing out a ticket."

"Can any one with training become a successful lightning ticket seller?"

Said Mr. Callan, cautiously: "I am sure I don't know, but my opinion, only my opinion, mind you, is that the circus ticket seller is born, not made."—Philadelphia Times.

PROOF OF MERIT.

The proof of the merits of a plaster is the cures it effects, and the voluntary testimonials of those who have used Allcock's Porous Plasters during the past thirty years is unimpeachable evidence of their superiority, and should convince the most skeptical. Self-praise is no recommendation, but certificates from those who have used them are.

Beware of imitations and do not be deceived by misrepresentation. Ask for Allcock's, and let no solicitation of explanation induce you to accept a substitute.

GO TO MARS.

At Least There's Where the Woman Wanted to Go.

The great Inter-Planetary Transportation company has opened its offices for business and the passengers had begun to arrive at the station. The people were taking these flights through the air to Mars and Venus for various reasons. There were a few "drummers" among them from business houses more enterprising than their rivals, but the freight rates to the planets are so high that only the lightest class of goods can be sent with profit. Those who made traveling a pleasure, and about their only occupation, were out in force, as usual. "Globe trotters," they used to be called, from their proclivities for going round the only planet with which they were familiar at that time. They went round and round, apparently looking for a place to jump off. The Inter-Planetary Transportation company has furnished them with a means of doing so now, and they take periodic flights to Mars and Venus instead of rambling through the graveyards of Europe as they did before the days of air ships, which travel with lightning-like rapidity.

The Tribune reporter was sitting in the office of the ticket agent when a woman of no uncertain age came up. She seemed to be embarrassed and looked around nervously to see if there was anyone near when she approached the ticket window. She inquired the prices of different classes of passage to Mars. After much beating about the bush she inquired in a shy way about the season on Mars.

"Their year is nearly twice as long as ours," said the agent among other things.

"Ah—er—you sure about that?"

"About what?"

"That is, are you sure that the year in Mars is twice as long as it is here?"

"Oh, certainly."

"Ah—er—um—then—that is—I suppose a person who is 50 here—er—would be only 25 there!

The color came and went in her face as she asked this question, and she looked as eagerly at the face of the agent as if he were a whole jury whose next words were to decide whether she were to live or die.

"Yes, you are right, Miss," he said, holding his eyes upon the diagram before him.

"Then I'll take a passage on the very next ship," she replied, "and don't fail to reserve it for me," and she went out with a radiant smile on her face.—New York Tribune.

THE PREMIER HAD DINED.

A young shorthand writer was once told to report a speech by Sir John Macdonald. Now it happened that the Canadian premier had come to the house from a dinner party, and his speech in matter and form was of a decidedly postprandial character. The youthful reporter, however, could not believe it possible that Sir John should want editing, and took down every word. His editor on seeing the copy, told him it would not do, and as it was not wanted for the next morning, he was advised to go and see Sir John and get him to correct it. The reporter, on being shown in, found Sir John, as usual, exceedingly affable. Having explained the object of his visit, the reporter was desired to read his notes aloud. This he did, while Sir John lay on a sofa listening with a face of extreme solemnity to his own incoherencies and correcting them as occasion required. When the notes were finished the premier arose, laid his hand on the young man's shoulder, and began in the most fatherly tones:

"I see exactly what has happened. Now, my dear young friend, I am an old man and you are a young one, and you will therefor not mind if I give you a piece of advice as to the practice of your profession. My advice is this: Never attempt to report a speech unless you are perfectly sure that you are sober.

With this Sir John bowed out his visitor.—Spare Moments.

MERCURIAL

S.S.S. Mr. J. C. Jones, of Fulton, Ark., says of "About ten years ago I contracted a severe case of blood poison. Leading physicians prescribed medicine after medicine, which I took without any relief. I also tried mercurial and potash remedies, with unsuccessful results, but which brought on an attack of mercurial rheumatism that made my life one of agony. After suffering four years I gave up all remedies and commenced using S. S. S. After taking several bottles, I was entirely cured and able to resume work.

THE FATED TRACY HOUSE.

It Has Become One of the Show Places of the National Capital.

The house which the Cleveland-Tylers have erected on the site of the former residence of Secretary Tracy is one of the sights always shown visitors to the city by guides and hackmen. The owner of the house was sitting on the upper balcony lately, behind the screen of palms and flowers arranged there, when a carriage drove up close to the curbing in front of the door. It was a cabman and a bridal couple. The former raised his whip and began, "That is the fated Tracy house." Then, checking himself, as if he had forgotten, "Oh, I forgot, but I can't tell you that. Capt. Tyler pays me fifty cents not to tell that." The couple were going to have that story and the groom was not going to appear to count fifty cents. He leaned over just as the cabman made a feint of urging on his horse and said, "Well, if I pay you seventy-five can't you tell it?" The driver was willing to be coaxed a little before he consented to earn the bonus. Then he gave in, and such a tale as he told of the Tracy fire would have thrilled the ears of the gallery gods at a Bowery tragedy. He crowned the story with a climax based on facts unknown even to the owners of the house. Pointing to the ornamental gaslight in front of the mansion the driver said, "See that light, how it leans to one side? That is where they braced the ladder, and when Mrs. Tracy jumped she hit there, and the light has slanted ever since."

This bit of corroborative detail filled the bridal couple with firm faith in their guide, while the mistress of the mansion retired in amazement. The historic lamppost will be braced up at once.—Kate Field's Washington.

CYCLONE.

Much Damage Done to Property in Arkansas.

Pine Bluff, Ark., July 1.—A cyclone passed over Garretson's landing, 20 miles east of this city, yesterday morning and demolished everything in its path.

Five buildings and a large gin house were completely wrecked. Trees were uprooted, fences blown away and crops greatly damaged. No lives were lost as far as known, but one man was seriously injured by flying timbers.

THE ANTI-OPTION BILL

It is Just Now Attracting Much Attention.

Movements of Grain for the Past Week.

Quotations from all the Trading Points on Both Sides of the Ocean.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 275,978 bu, and at the other western points 206,649 bu; aggregate 482,627 bu.

The receipts of grain this week—five days—at eight principal western points, have been, wheat 2,965,000 bu, corn 2,329,000 bu, oats 2,190,000 bu. Previous week—six days—Wheat 3,589,000 bu, corn 4,263,000 bu, oats 2,908,000 bu. In the week corresponding to this in 1891 the receipts were for only four days and are unimportant as a comparison.

The export clearances yesterday from four Atlantic ports were, wheat 219,181 bu, and flour to an aggregate of 500,000 bu. Exports of corn 171,062 bu and of oats 50,494 bu.

The exports from the same ports in the week were, wheat 1,467,000 bu, corn 449,000 bu, oats 189,000 bu. Previous week, wheat 1,621,000 bu, corn 922,000 bu, oats 232,000 bu.

We do not expect to receive Bradstreet's estimate of exports from both coasts for the week, in time for this issue.

The flour and grain markets abroad furnish no encouragement for better prices and the crop reports filtered through Chicago have produced a bearish sentiment on the exchanges, and prices are easier.

In three states, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, south of Columbus, Indianapolis and Springfield, the reports of wheat are favorable, and north of those points every day develops blight, rust and lodgment of the wheat. Over the latter vicinage we do not believe in over half an average yield.

The weather is reported as very favorable over all the wheat belt. Here's hoping for a dry harvest.

The deliveries of grain at Chicago today on July contracts is reported as light all around.

The Hatch bill, according to the Chicago Post, is once more killed. Please do not credit that kind of forecasting. If it ever gets up for discussion in the senate it will be passed, unless the exchanges of the country make up and send large delegations to protest against it and work with individual senators. Chicago's idea of a still hunt will put in peril every exchange in this country. The writer knows what he is saying. A score of senators who are opposed to the bill will vote for it, because they dare not face the consequences of an opposing vote. The term of office of 27 senators expires in 1893 and in many cases new elections have not been held. The influence upon the senate of large and earnest delegations, as though fighting for a financial existence, cannot be over-estimated.

Of course it may not be necessary to move on their works until the bill is before the senate.

The following letter from Mr. Beerbohm has been received:

London, June 13, 1892.

Denison B. Smith, Esq., Toledo, O.

Dear Sir:—Your favor of June 1st is received. I am writing to the Western Union Telegraph Co., suggesting that stocks of home grown and foreign wheat and flour be given each week by cable. If the company consent I am prepared to send this information regularly.

Yours Very Respectfully, etc.,
J. E. BEERBOHM.

Liverpool stocks show an increase in wheat, in June, of 640,000 bu., 240,000 bu. of corn, and 10,000 bu. of flour. The excess of wheat over July, 1891, is 1,040,000 bu., and 110,000 bu. of flour. Corn is 80,000 bu. less than in 1891.

WANTS A REAL BATTLE.

City of Mexico, July 1.—It is said that Gen. KNOCKED OFF THE PIER

The Big Tioga Crashes Into a Bridge.

Serious Accident in the Calumet River.

Interesting News Gathered by Bee Reporters at all the Lake Ports.

Chicago, July 1.—South Halsted bridge was knocked into the river yesterday by the steamer Tioga, of the Union Steamboat company, while in tow of the tug Gardner, and navigation in that part of the south branch was again brought to a standstill. The tug was crushed by a part of the falling bridge and Capt. Cullnan and his crew of four men had narrow escapes.

The tug whistled for the bridge, and the bridge-tender, Thomas Coran, rang the bridge bell in response, which was the signal for the tug and her tow to come on and that the bridge would be opened in time.

This is the custom at all the city bridges, but when Corran got his lever in place and attempted to turn the bridge it would not move. It was out of repair, had caught in some way and was locked.

The Tioga is a monster steel craft, carrying 2,800 tons. The tug could not stop her, and, though her engine had been stopped and reversed when it was seen that the bridge was not going to open, the momentum carried the great craft into the structure with a crash.

It was a terrible collision and the bridge was knocked entirely off the wheels and center table and thrown over, falling diagonally, one end on the bridge pier and the other end on the tug Gardner, the bridge breaking in two.

The pilot house, smoke stack, whistle, steampipe and exhaust were all crushed down to the deck and the tug was thus held. The boiler was shifted, several stanchions broken, rail and stringers crushed. In an instant the tug, the Tioga and the whole wreck were enveloped in smoke and steam. There were cries for help and the greatest excitement prevailed. Hundreds of people were attracted to the scene, supposing at first that another boiler explosion had occurred. Small boats were lowered from the Tioga and men appropriated the yawls of schooners lying near and went in among the wreck to save the imperilled lives.

Capt. Cullan had saved himself by leaping out on deck and lying prostrate. Even in this position the great timbers of the bridge and the wreck of the pilot house came within a foot of him in the general crash, and after it was all over, when volunteers were searching for his dead body, he had to crawl out on his hands and knees.

TWO SIDES TO A CASE

What Constitutes Separate Places of Business.

A Saloonkeeper Runs Two Places Under One License and Gets Into Trouble.

Napoleon, O., July 1.—(Special)—Chas. Polker, one of Napoleon's saloonkeepers, has run against the Dow tax, and much interest is manifested at the result.

He has been a saloonkeeper near the canal for years. During the past week he purchased another saloon next door and cut an arch through the division wall, and for the past week has operated both bars under the same license.

Yesterday Treasurer Groll appointed Marshal Burns his deputy and ordered him to take charge of the fixtures and stock of bar No. 2. The marshal took possession, but no sooner was this done than Polker served a writ of replevin.

The case will probably be heard to-day before a justice.

Polker claims that he has proceeded under the authority of Collector Waldorf, of Toledo, who claims that in the eyes of the law the two rooms are taken as one place of business and therefore require but one license.

EVERYTHING IS QUIET

With the Street Car Companies To-day.

Both Sides Have Forces of Men at Work.

The Reason Why There is anxiety to do the Work Individually—The End is Not Yet, Probably.

The street railroad fight and the actions of the two companies on Perry street yesterday afternoon was the topic of conversation on the streets of the city last evening.

After Mr. Lang had caused the arrest of the Robisons and 63 of their men, David Robison and his attorneys applied in court for an injunction restraining the Consolidated from making any future arrests or interfering in any manner with their men at work on reconstructing the tracks.

The case was ably supported by counsel on both sides, and at the conclusion Judge Harmon issued a restraining order as prayed for by the Robisons.

In the meantime the Consolidated had put their men at work replacing the tracks which had been torn up by the Robisons.

Armed with the injunction, the Robisons proceeded to chase the Consolidated laborers away and put their own men gearing up the tracks.

After trouble had ceased in this quarter it broke out anew in another direction.

About 4 o'clock the Consolidated put a force of men tearing up the tracks in Monroe street, between Huron and Erie. About 8 o'clock in the evening, on instructions from the mayor, Chief of Police Raitz ordered the men to cease, which they did.

Manager Lang heard of the step taken, and seeking Mayor Emmick inquired into the meaning of it all. He found his honor in consultation with Solicitor Read at the council chambers. In a very short time Mr. Brumback, David Robison, Fire Chief

HIS SLAVE LIFE.

A Romance and Pathetic Story of Life Before the War.

There lives near Kirkville, Mo., an old colored man who can tell what is probably the most romantic and at the same time pathetic story of the days of slavery of any of those who have survived the terrible time. George Anderson was a slave for forty years, and is now so old that he can do nothing but sit in the chimney corner and think of the past. He was raised under an indulgent master until he was 52 years old and married a girl on the plantation, living happily until the time of the death of the owner of the place.

Then came trouble to the slaves on the plantation, for the master had been careless and owed much money. His slaves were sold, and in selling them Anderson and his wife were separated. He had a good master again, but his young wife was sold to a man who was noted for his cruelty, and it almost meant death for any of his slaves to cross him. The colored man determined that his wife should not be subjected to the cruelties of the new master, and made arrangements to get her away to the north and suffer the consequenses of freeing a slave.

His plans were successful, and his wife was spirited away by the "underground rilway" known to the slaves before the war. She went to the North and Anderson was caught while returning to his home. He was caught by the owner of the escaped woman and taken to his own master, and his life was demanded as a forfeit. This his master would not agree to, and a duel was the consequense between the two slave owners.

The poor negro saw that his master was liable to be shot for protecting him, and with rare devotion he threw himself before his body just as the command to fire was given, receiving the ball intended for his master in his own body. He lay for weeks between life and death, but finally recovered, and the trouble between the two men was lost in the war between the North and South, which soon followed the episode.—N. Y. Recorder.

DEATH WAS NEAR HER.

An Old Servant Narrowly Escapes the Baronne Dellard's Fate

Mme. Lecossols, a superannuated domestic servant living in one of the upper rooms of a house in the Rue Caumartin, off the Boulevards, says a Paris letter, has had a narrow escape from the fate which overtook the Baronne Dellard, whom Anastay selected as his victim. The retired bonne had the habit of leaving her door unlocked, little expecting to receive the sudden visits of such dangerous persons as the well-dressed young man who walked into her humble abode recently and asked for something to eat. Mme. Lecossols gave the stranger some dry bread, and, owing to his murmurs of protestations, she supplemented the simple repast with a cold chop which had remained over from her own dinner.

As soon as the well-dressed, but starving, visitor had finished the modest meal, he urged a claim for some money. The woman, beginning to be frightened, went to a box for her money, and, while she was unlocking the receptacle, she was seized by her uninvited guest, who squeezed her throat until the blood came out of her nostrils. The stranger then placed the old woman, who was in an unconscious condition, on her bed and pillaged the room. He succeeded in getting away with a purse containing a small sum of money and a gold watch and chain. The victim was for two hours in a semi-comatose condition, but eventually regaining consciousness, she tottered to her window and shouted for help, which soon came. She stated to the police that she had no knowledge whatever of the would-be murderer, who offered her, on entering her room, an envelope containing a religious picture.
